ALUMNAE REUNION MEETING, MAY, 1928

MINUTES

The fifty-third annual meeting of the Alumnae Association of Mount Vernon Seminary was called to order in the Great Hall of the school, by the president, Mrs. Labat, at eleven o'clock Saturday morning, May 26, 1928. Over one hundred members were present.

Miss Harriet Belle Walker '81 introduced the incoming Class of 1928, twenty-one in number.

Mrs. Labat greeted the new members as follows:

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1928:

It is again my pleasure as President of the Alumnae Association of Mount Vernon Seminary to greet the newest members of our association. It is needless for me to tell you how happy and proud we are to have you, with your splendid record and fine, worthwhile qualities.

You girls who come in every year are the life of our body; through your young eyes we receive new impressions, renew our interests and revive forgotten memories. You have had the best that this institution could give you. A great privilege has been yours in the companionship of its teachers and the benefit of their teachings. May your lives reflect the aspirations of the founders of our dear Alma Mater.

We enjoy a special honor today in having with us two members of the class of 1878—Mrs. Lura Nash Griggs, and Mrs. Florence Nokes Murphy.

Not quite so far back in our history, but no less honored, is the Class of 1888 with all members present.

May the example of these devoted alumnae be an inspiration to us all. Let us, as classes, observe our anniversaries, let us prove our loving loyalty by coming back often, and may each Reunion be for some Class a Golden Jubilee.

Catherine Evatt, president of the Class of 1928 and an M. V. S. granddaughter responded as follows:

The Alumnae Association has always meant the final goal for any girl who has entered the Junior and Senior years of Mount Vernon Seminary. One of the hardest moments, as Commencement rushes on our heels, is the thought of parting and leaving our friends. Though we may go to the north, south, east or west, our ties of friendship for our school, our classmates, our predecessors, and our successors, need never be broken for which we thank this Association.

Also, I know the Seniors feel the responsibility of becoming part of that body that keeps us in touch with our Alma Mater and our friends. The Alumnae Association will serve us where we are, to remind us of our school and its ideals and the loyalty that is due anything connected with M. V. S. It is, therefore, with the greatest pleasure and promise to uphold the ideals of the Association that we the Senior Class of 1928 join your ranks today.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The Treasurer presented the following report:

Miss Willis called attention to a gift of $23.00 made to the Association by Mrs. Stella Ford Schlotman, '98, whereupon it was moved and seconded: "That this $23.00 be placed in a savings bank for an emergency fund for the association." A vote.

Miss Cole announced the receipt of a check for $50.00 from Mrs. Lura Nash Griggs '78, this amount to be used in purchasing some needed article for the school.

Mrs. Marguerite Weller Hynson '08, member of the Auditing Committee, reported that the Treasurer's books had been audited and found in excellent condition.

The Treasurer's report was accepted.

The report of the Chapel Committee under the heading of "Romance of a Chapel" and written by Miss Anne Seymour Ames '81 was read by Miss Walker who prefaced the reading with "It gives me great pleasure to be the means of transmission for my classmate Anne Seymour Ames."

After the reading of this report it was moved and seconded "That this very beautiful report be accepted with much gratitude." A Vote.

A rising tribute of appreciation of Miss Ames' exceptionally fine work as Chairman of the Chapel Committee was then in order.

Miss Walker, Treasurer of the M. V. S. Society, made a most interesting report of the work of the Society and chapters.

The president then asked Miss Cole to call the roll of the Association by classes.

The following motions were made as the roll call proceeded :

1st. That a note expressing regret that she could not be present be sent to Miss Anna Mary Eddy Kennedy '80. Voted.

2nd. That a note be sent to Mrs. Adalyn Smith Holden '79 telling her that she was missed and sending love to her. Voted.

3rd. That a note of love and sympathy be sent to Mrs. Mary Lutz Lemon '96 who has been ill for some time. Voted.

4th. That a note of love and sympathy be sent to Mrs. Anne Hamilton McIntosh '03, together with the hope that her children will recover speedily from their illnesses. Voted.

5th. That the love and sympathy and hope for full restoration to health be sent to Miss Guard. Voted.

Miss Walker brought greetings to the Association from Helen Yeatman Doughty '18.

Miss Cole then addressed the Association. She expressed her joy in having so many old girls return on visits to the school each year; the wonderful record of the Association in paying their pledges to the Chapel Fund (mention being made that only two pledges remained unpaid, but that it was hoped they would be redeemed soon). She laid special stress upon the fact that the time was coming when the school would pass into hands of those who had not known Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley and that it would be the duty of the Alumnae to interpret to them the distinct character of M. V. S. She then called attention to the fact that owing to her being so closely in touch with the Senior Classes each year, she was able to understand their desires, hopes and ambitions. Eight of the Class of 1927 entered college during the past year and other members of the class of twenty-three in number were doing interesting things. Miss Cole also spoke on the changing conditions and the necessity of making changes in the curriculum of the school to meet the new conditions. In this connection she introduced to the Association Miss Alice Mildred Burgess, the new Associate Head Mistress, who, she said was especially qualified to fill this responsible position at M. V. S. Because of the change in the curriculum for the coming year—especially that of the Junior and Senior years—Miss Cole asked Miss Burgess to briefly outline the proposed course. In the course of her remarks, Miss Burgess expressed the hope that the Alumnae would ask many questions and that after they had had time to carefully study the proposed courses which would be outlined in a statement of the methods to be pursued in forming the Junior College, which statement would be sent to the members of the Association when completed, that they would criticize and express their views very plainly to Miss Cole and herself.

Miss Burgess' remarks were received with much interest and several questions were asked by some of the members.

It was announced by Miss Cole that during the year 1927-1928 twenty-three school granddaughters and eighteen little sisters comprised nearly one third of the student body.

Miss Blanche Polkinhorn '95 stated that she thought it would be a very good idea to have some attractive pictures of the school taken so that members of the Alumnae might secure them and have them to show upon request. She suggested having such pictures that could be framed and which would be a really proud possession of any member of the Association. This was taken under advisement.

Mrs. Labat then addressed the Association on the occasion of her retirement from office. She thanked the officers of the Association for their faithful service during her tenure of office, and especially thanked the Chairman and Treasurer of the Chapel Committee. She stated that she felt the Chapel would not have been completed in so short a time had it not been for the untiring efforts of Miss Ames and Miss Morgan. Miss Cole rose at this point to state that the Association had been especially fortunate in having Mrs. Labat as its president for so many years; that while she had been actually president for only one year, she had acted as the presiding officer in the absence of the president for the past four years.

Mrs. Labat introduced the new president Miss Elsie Foerderer '09 in the following words: "It is a great pleasure to present to you your new president. She is a member of my class, is a very splendid person. We worked together during our school days and I know of no more worth-while person to hold the office of president of the Alumnae Association than Elsie Foerderer."

To this Miss Foerderer replied:

"I would have felt an even greater hesitation than I did, in accepting the honor and assuming the responsibility of becoming the president of the Alumnae Association, were it not that I have such confidence in you who constitute its membership for that support which alone will make it possible for us to carry forward the splendid traditions of M. V. S.

"Mrs. Somers once said, 'Every work of the past is incomplete unless the present sustains it.' I look to you, your loyalty and faithfulness to sustain and to increase the glory of our Alma Mater."

There being no further business before the Association, the meeting adjourned to the dining room where a most delectable luncheon was served under the able direction of the dietitian of M. V. S., Mrs. Baylis.

Respectfully submitted,

HELEN KINGSBURY MYERS,
Recording Secretary

The "Delectable luncheon," mentioned in the Minutes, was followed according to ancient custom by toasts.

Mrs. Addie Burr Clarke of the zealous class of '88 was the toastmistress. Lack of space forbids the reproduction of her introduction and the witty preludes to the toasts.

Of the toasts themselves we can give but the titles:

"In our infancy"	LURA NASH GRIGGS, '78
"When we were very young"	MARY BRADFORD STONE, '88
"Coming of age"	HELEN SLATER MALLORY, '98
"In our prime"	ELIZABETH BAUM ROUSE, '08
"A new lease on life"	VIRGINIA NIRDLINGER, '18
"Progressive education"	ROWENA THOM, '28
"Alma Mater"	BETH SHERWOOD, '28

Many were the memories evoked by the responses, memories gay, memories very sweet and tender. We were all again girls of one age with one passion of devotion to our beloved M. V. S.

One of the most pleasing events of Alumnæ Day is the hour of entertainment in the Quadrangle following the Luncheon.

This year we had a maypole dance, a joyous blending of soft colour of streamers from the two poles with the dainty shades of the special occasion dresses in the simple figures of the dance. The second dance was given by the undergraduates, who, in their white and gold uniforms looked like daisies in the grass.

We felt very proud to have two thirds of the living members of 1878, this year's "Jubilee Class," with us on Alumnæ Day. Lura Nash Griggs and Florence Nokes Murphy were our honoured guests. Hardly less remarkable was the fact that the Class of 1888 turned out 100% strong, every member being present, the class not having lost even one member by death. In fact the class was 101% perfect, including as it did one special student, Maria Baldwin, as loyal and as loving as any alumna. To 1888 was awarded the coveted Cup given to the class having the largest attendance on Alumnæ Day.

Before the maypole dancing the classes of 1878 and 1888 were crowned and decorated with daisies great and small, the larger variety appearing on trains fastened to the shoulders, giving the wearers an air at once regal and slightly oriental.

The final event of the day was tea at the Elizabeth Somers, a matter of particular interest to the school granddaughters who were, as one senior put it, "Allowed, even encouraged to explore every bit of the building and Senior house."

REPORT OF THE ELIZABETH SOMERS CHAPEL COMMITTEE

DEDICATED TO MISS JEAN DEAN COLE

through whose helpful cooperation and potential interest a large part of the success of final achievement is due.

THE ROMANCE OF A CHAPEL

Had you been in attendance in the year of our Lord 1919 as the alumnae of Mount Vernon Seminary assembled for their forty-fourth reunion, yours would have been the great privilege of greeting both Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley. With all the exultation over our completed Chapel there must always be a poignant sense of loss that when we dedicated it those two had joined

". . . the Choir invisible
Of those immortal dead who live again
In minds made better by their presence."

We go back to the year 1919, for although no suggestion of a chapel was made publicly at that reunion, one month before at an informal meeting of the local alumnae the project was broached by Mrs. True, then president of the Alumnae association.

Three reasons, I think, are responsible for the urgency of that year. First, the confession by Mrs. Somers herself that the dearest wish of her heart was for a real chapel on the campus; second, an amazing outpouring through a "Retrospect number" of a recent Annual of the deep and abiding character-building Mrs. Somers had wrought in the lives of so many M. V. S. girls, and third, Mrs. Somers' longing thought in the recent loss of her niece, Josephine Eddy Hayden, for some memorial for all M. V. S. girls who had died.

Mrs. Hensley had thought from the beginning that the undertaking should come from both alumnae and non-graduates, and that the chapel should bear the name of Mrs. Somers herself.

When Mrs. True selected a Chapel committee the thought in mind was for a comparatively simple building, and the original plan was the filling in of the fourth side of the quadrangle—which would have obscured the view of the rising cathedral. However it was shortly realized that an unattached chapel would be far more dignified and imposing. Mr. Bessell selected the present site as one which would command the longest possible daylight through the great chancel window, a site which has proven the happiest choice possible.

I cannot give any history of this labor of love without giving the names of the Chapel committee to whose faithful work I wish to pay grateful tribute. In the early years Mrs. Capen served most untiringly as treasurer until she moved from Washington. Dear Carrie Janney died in June, 1922, a great loss to us all. The other members are, Miss Cole, Mrs. Durand, Mrs. Erwin, Mrs. Fairfax, Miss Anna Green, Mrs. Hynson, Mrs. Lansing (Vice President), Mrs. Labat (Second Vice President), Miss Morgan (Treasurer since June, 1922), Mrs. Pope, Mrs. Stone (Secretary), Miss Mary Strachan, Miss Walker, Mrs. Watson, Miss Wills and Miss Ames (President).

We incorporated in the fall of 1924.

The first drive was launched on Founder's Day, 1924. Our plan was to make the various chapters of M. V. S. distributing stations of enthusiasm and friendly rivalry, but this proved not a success. It was a post-war period when every organization was worked to its fullest capacity and the girls wrote, "As an individual I will be delighted to give, but not as a Chapter." As a matter of fact the greatest calamity that could have happened to us would have been the success of our first plan, for in that case each Chapter would have sent us a flat sum whereas by individual gifts thousands and thousands came from almost every Society.

We have had four big drives and three more limited ones, appeals sent to alumnæ, personal letters and tactful but urgent suggestions that enormous financial savings would result from the prompt payment of pledges.

In the first and second drives we tried to see how cheaply we could send our appeals. The result was that with the mass of begging literature ours went the easy way of the scrap basket. In the third drive we used a most charming picture of the Chapel done in soft sepia on a buff background and we found our best economy was extravagance. As for the beguiling Christmas tree, its cost of production was between three and four hundred dollars but in six weeks it had netted us more than ten thousand.

Another project was the lantern slides of "M. V. S., Past and Present." The initial cost was large but the results justified it. One of our Chapel committee made two missionary tours with that precious lantern box, and Miss Cole has been its flaming evangel!

Following the suggestion of Rachel Coffin, '88, made at the Golden Jubilee, Miss Willis ably reclaimed back dues amounting to $1,012.00. Still another successful venture was the Chapel Supplement in connection with the Roll Call which reaches so many non-graduates. That cost $100.00 but like the biblical mustard seed grew to be a great tree.

Gifts poured in upon us, not only such magnificent bequests as Mr. Hensley's $5,000.00 for the Chancel in memory of Mrs. Hensley, but many lesser (but not less valued) ones. Twenty two "group," and four individual memorial pews represented $500.00 apiece. This is the place to record that twenty-eight classes went "Over the top," contributing an average of $50.00 for every single member. Many other classes that did not quite reach that quota nevertheless gave most generously.

Two rich sources of revenue were in the splendid gifts of the two Founders ($5,000.00 each) and the thirteen Benefactors ($1,000.00 each). Read their names on the bronze panel near the Chapel entrance. Something of the detail of expense can be learned from the fact that the silver markers on class pews and individual chapel furniture cost $743.50.

In our beautiful Book of Remembrance is a list of all the donors, however small or great the individual gift. The Book is incomplete at present but next fall Miss Lane will finish it, filling in every name.

The beautiful organ, gift of the Faculty in Mrs. Hensley's name, the exquisite screen given by the non-graduates, have been mentioned in earlier reports, as well as many smaller but precious gifts. This year we have met the problem of raising sufficient money to secure cushions for the pews. We had less than $1,000.00 at our last Reunion and the cushions we knew would cost more than twice that amount. The 1927-8 school has done magnificent work for the cause. Every class has given largely, Optima, Senior, Junior, White, Yellow and the French class—a grand total of $1,143.20. Three Juniors wrote and presented a play which netted $41.00. I am proud to say that our cushions, woven and dyed especially for us, sun-fast and reversible, exquisitely made and of a lovely honey color, are in the Chapel and the bill of $2,795.84 is entirely paid.

The complete report of the Treasurer of the Chapel fund follows, but a few financial details given here will interest you.

In these nine years including the cost of the vast amount of printing for the drives, the innumerable stamps used, the cost of incorporation, the official seal, the Chapel Supplement, fire insurance during construction, the lantern slides and their missionary tours, the total is the modest sum of \$1,136.00. Add to it \$743.50 for markers in silver and bronze, \$102.20 for the cutting of the names on the stone foundations of our four columns, and the result is \$1,981.70. Now usually such expenses come out of the contributions, but—just as soon as the money began to come in the Chapel Treasurer and the Committee paid a visit to Uncle Sam's treasury and there selected Certificates of Indebtedness because in an issue coming to maturity March, 1925, it knew they must come to par, and being short term notes they would yield the very large percentage of interest $4\frac{3}{4}$ per cent.

Mr. Hynson, Marguerite Hynson's husband, made all our investments, showing almost as much interest as we did. The years were short and it nearly killed us when we had to spend huge sums for our large and growing bills, but the results of our investments yielded the tidy sum of $6,725.85. Since the total expenditures of the Chapel committee (as above indicated) were $1,981.70, and our investments gave us $6,725.85 we were able not only to put every single contribution actually into the Chapel but had a surplus of $4,744.15 to add to it.

At the time of our Golden Jubilee we had more than ten thousand dollars out in pledges. In such case a substantial shrinkage is the accepted expectation. I am more than proud to announce that to date every single pledge has been redeemed save two of fifty dollars each. Of course we long for a perfect percentage.

What, now, of the grand total after nine years?

First, may I ask you to forgive me if I do not include in bald figures the cost of the wonderful bell? I cannot make of it a financial statement. Also Mr. Bessel's gift of the stone pedestal for the Book of Remembrance must be acknowledged only in grateful thanks.

As a Chapel committee we have raised a total of $91,025.64.

The Committee has disbursed a total of $90,707.56 and being entirely free from debt, has a balance of $318.08 toward the badly needed inside shutters which are our next objective.

In addition to the sum mentioned we have the magnificent gift of $15,600.00 from the Incorporators of the Greater M. V. S. for the glorious organ in memory of Mrs. Hensley. There are also in the Savings Department, six designated memorials not included in the other gifts and memorials already incorporated in the above total, and not yet bought pending careful selection, and these six add $785.00.

The complete amount, then, exclusive of the bell and pedestal is, $107,410.64. The entire Chapel is paid for and we have in the bank $318.08 toward our inside shutters.

In closing I wish I might show in some magic way the love, sacrifice and spiritual values that make our Chapel so beautiful a thing. For after all the material side, now finished, is but the outward expression of the reality of the Elizabeth Somers Chapel.

So shall I leave you with the Chapel prayer.

Child of the Infinite,
Enter thy Father's house,
Here may there be visions of duty;
Precious strength for thy journey upward;
The clear call of service;
The guerdon of fair gentleness and courtesy, and
The rich heritage of peace.
And in this Holy Place may there ever be Communion with thy Father and the Unclouded revelation of the King in His beauty.

ANNE SEYMOUR AMES.

A PSALM OF CUSHIONS

Dedicated to the Elizabeth Somers Chapel

Tell us not in mournful numbers,
Chapel pews inviting seem,
For the soul is dead that slumbers
In our Chapel (we would deem) !

Not enjoyment, but real sorrow
Is our portion, as we stay,
And we note, that each tomorrow
Finds us stiffer than today.

Generous spirits all remind us,
Portly checks are surely prime,
And invested, give as surplus,
Comforts to the last of time.

Let us then be up and doing,
For our cushions, nor delay,
But collecting and pursuing,
Get the money right away !

CHAIRMAN OF THE CHAPEL COMMITTEE.

With apologies to H. W. L.

May 18, 1927.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The reader of the Report of the Chapel Committee will notice that this plea was worthily answered.

SCHOOL EVENTS

And now the school year 1927-1928 having won its laurels goes to join the other years that make up the history of M. V. S. Change and innovation marked its progress although they left unchanged the fine old spirit and traditions of the school.

Space is given us for hardly more than a calendar of school events yet the mere outline of them thrills every one of us who took part or were onlookers.

The first great event following the excitement of Opening Day was Fag Week, a picturesque occasion with its actors posing as Alpine climbers, members of the labor union and a complete circus troupe including many wild animals.

Founders Day, M. V. S.'s birthday, November 5th, was well attended by both students and old girls. Zimmer's superb cake was, as usual, more than a triumph, outdoing even its famous predecessors.

The following day was made memorable by a joint recital by Mrs. Larkin who gave some very delightful readings and recitations, and Miss Winston whose brilliant playing always captures her audience. Other recitals followed in the course of the winter. Mrs. Rickett and Miss Edwards gave us a particularly enjoyable evening and the musical programs given by the pupils of Mrs. Rickett, Miss Winston and Mrs. Payne were more than creditable. Musical talent flourished amazingly in the senior class—Virginia Harris, Edna Sherman, Beth Sherwood, Eleanor Miller, Shirley Hobbins, Marguerite Herrick and Faith Decker deserve honorable mention for their gifts in that line. Esther Goetz, Dorothea Sigel, Beth Sherwood, Elizabeth Roberts and Virginia Harris are particularly charming in song.

Dramatics, too, flourished, and the Senior play in atmosphere, interpretation and personnel of caste was delightfully a success. The players were:

Sister Sagrario	JESSIE CLARK
Sister Marcella	ELEANOR MILLER
The Prioress	CATHERINE EVATT
Sister Joanna of the Cross	ESTHER GOETZ
The Mistress of the Novices	MARTHA FITTON
Vicaress	ELIZABETH ROBERTS
Sister Tornera	EDNA SHERMAN

The Christmas play was "Eagerheart," an old mystery play. Just as the final curtain was drawn, Santa Claus' prancing reindeer deposited him at the gymnasium door and every M. V. S. girl knows that the evening was then complete.

The Junior play was "The Merchant of Venice," amazingly successful, with Berrilla Kerrs' interpretation of Shylock, a feature long to be remembered, and the Yellow and White classes' combined forces gave us a charmingly Irish "Little Old New York."

The Ingenuity Contests also belong under the caption of Dramatics since one was a one-act play entitled "Blocks," and another a pantomime depicting "A Day at M. V. S." The Seniors gave their interpretation of the gay nineties but the Juniors were strictly up-to-date and gave such a rollicking daring production that they won the contest and several weeks later presented their colors of sapphire and gold with a splendid song composed by Martha Alexander.

The St. Valentine party is more than an annual affair—it is a beloved tradition. No M. V. S. girl can forget the joy of setting aside her own personality and “making believe” in the dress of her choice, yea, even perhaps receiving a prize for that same ingenious costume.

On March 10th the Seniors and Juniors gave a party for the Yellows and Whites, and a month later came the Cupola party uniquely called “The Pop-Ad Movie.” It proved to be a real movie, too—Ramon Novarro in the “Road to Romance,” given in the gym surprisingly transformed into a theatre-cabaret. After the movie was over the orchestra seats were hastily pushed into boxes and balconies, ice cream and pop were served and dancing followed. The very varied costumes of the audience added much to the hilarity.

The Athletic Association wound up the year with a Black and White Ball made memorable by an orchestra that more than rose to the occasion.

No mention of School events is complete without a word concerning the clubs. Optima, ever seeking the highest and best, has raised the number of points required for entrance to twenty. Elizabeth Roberts was President; Anne Hearne, Vice-President; Virginia Harris, Secretary, and Jessie Clark, Treasurer.

Eleanor Miller was President of the French Club; Jean Redick of the Walking Club; Esther Goetz of Treble Clef, and who can find fault with that?

Athletics, athletics, rah! rah! rah!

Under Miss Pearson, Miss Finley and Dot Sigel, President of the Athletic Association, we roused much enthusiasm and e-nor-mous muscles.

Many were the friendly contests at croquet and on the deck-tennis court—we even held a track meet in the spring, and our only disappointment was in the expected basket-ball game with the Madeira School which failed to take place because of the measles quarantine of our opponents.

On April 27th, the Seniors solved the Peace Problem with a series of essays presented in a miniature League of Nations by its various delegates. The Speaker, Virginia Harris, opened the meeting and its first act was to elect Rowena Thom President, by secret ballot. She then presented each delegate who had some solution to offer and the following program was the result.

"An Historical Sketch of the Evolution of the Ideal of World Peace" JESSIE CLARK

"Modern Imperialism" MARY POPE

"The Achievements of the League of Nations"

BETH SHERWOOD

"Woodrow Wilson and His Part in World Unity"

(Read by Dorothea Sigel) KATHERINE EVATT

"The Youth Movement" EDNA SHERMAN

"International Scientific Research" . . ELEANOR MILLER

"Sport and Its Part in World Friendship"

(Read by Faith Decker) JANE QUILHOT

The Junior banquet for the Seniors was an altogether delightful affair. Both guests and hostesses found their cherished secrets presented publicly for their mutual amusement, there were the sad songs of farewell and Miss Cole's inspiring "Story," altogether the proper blend of sweetness and sadness for the beginning of the end of the year 1928.

Hark ye to the brave tale of the school publications.

The Roll Call is an unfailing favorite, nor did its popularity diminish this year. The Cupola, no longer an infant but now in its seventh year, was given out during Commencement week, royally impressive in its black and gold binding and boasting for the first time a "jacket," the outside paper cover that all fine books wear.

Three times during the year we were treated to The Broadside, a magazine entirely composed, compiled and printed by students of the Workshop, one more triumph in our little world of student life.

In closing this record of School events we have saved for the last the mention of a great step which we can best describe in the following quotation from the Cupola.

"Co-operative government is a new system of government that has been created and put into effect this year. Its aim is to create among the girls and faculty a feeling of co-operation and that other most important feeling for any kind of success in school government, that of having a conscious place in the whole. Each class has its President and two elected members on the Council. The chairman, Jane Quilhot, we elected by school vote from the Senior class. There are also two faculty advisers who help to further our fulfillment of the title by giving us adequate means for co-operation with the Faculty. Everyone is favoring this progressive step in line of freer representation and student opinion which will help us to overcome our troubles and lead to a finer school. May our hopes for the future be realized!"

Here endeth the tale of the School Year 1927-1928.

MARIE HORST, '28

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

On Friday morning, May 25th, Commencement Week began with School Day exercises in the gymnasium.

Following the Senior class, proudly carrying its banner, came a brave display of representatives of other classes, members of 1878, 1881, 1888, 1907, 1925, 1926 and 1927, each with her own class banner.

The program consisted of representative work from academic departments including short essays, poetry and a play. Then followed the reading of school records, the report of Tea Room fund, the report of Lend-a-Hand Society, and the following awards.

Genevieve Stewart scholarship cup for highest standing during the year, Daisy Parsons; Cupola prize for best short story, Beth Sherwood; riding cup (first time awarded), Dorothy Sigel; athletic medal, Dorothy Sigel; M. V. S. medal trophy for sportsmanship, application and achievement, presented by Jane Quilhot, '28, Dorothy Sigel; home economics certificates, Martha Fitton, Marguerite Herrick, Rowena Thom, Beth Sherwood, Mary Pope (daughter of Mary Ankeny, a former pupil). Flag honor for the highest average in citizenship for the year, The Senior Class.

In the afternoon many guests enjoyed the exhibits of art work, charts and maps as well as prints and sketches, and note books of other courses. That evening the Student recital completed a full and delightful day.

Saturday, the 26th, was Alumnae Day, the great school event of the year for the alumnae and so given a special and separate place in this their Annual.

The Baccalaureate service was held the next day in the Elizabeth Somers chapel. Besides the moving sermon on progress and purpose in life preached by Rev. Frederick B. Harris, we had some very beautiful music, Virginia Rose's lovely solo, Kathryn Bavinger's violin obligato, the Quartet, and the anthem (dedicated by Mr. Torovsky to our choristers of this year). That evening the guests of the Seniors stopped to supper and later heard the class in farewell songs in the Great Hall.

There were two commencement plays given this year, Barrie's "The Twelve Pound Look," and "Glory of the Morning," by William E. Leonard. It is impossible in our restricted space to give even an idea of how well they were carried out in acting, setting and spirit.

On Monday, May 29th, Class Day exercises were held. The Class History was read by Catherine Evatt; the Class Lamentation, in verse form, by Virginia Harris; the Class Statistics by Elizabeth Johnston; the Class Prophecy by Esther Goetz; the Class Will and Testament by Elizabeth Roberts and the Class Poem by Beth Sherwood.

Catherine Evatt, as President of 1928, presented the School banner to Jane Cochran, President of 1929, and placed about her neck the key to Senior House of the old School, now symbolic of Senior responsibilities and privileges. After the Senior bonfire, the Tree was planted, the toast sung and the Cupola given to the Seniors. The gift of 1928 to the school was an exquisite silver flower bowl.

The evening of the same day was made memorable by the program of the Treble Clef Club. None of us can forget the musical treats of 1927-1928.

Wednesday, May 30th, brought the graduating exercises in the Elizabeth Somers Chapel, the final act of Commencement Week. The ceremony of that day has become traditional and is a sweet and fitting and dignified one. The first act is the placing of wreaths on the Adelia Gates Hensley memorial gates, then the procession, headed by the wreath-bearers, followed in turn by Miss Cole and the giver of the Commencement Address (Bishop Freeman, this year) with the Faculty, School, and the Seniors in cap and gown, crosses the lawn to the Chapel and there places wreaths under the two great front windows. So did the Fifty-third Class of Mt. Vernon Seminary come into its own.

GENERAL NOTES OF SPECIAL INTEREST

The following alumnae visited the school during the year 1927-1928: Genevieve Stewart, 1927; Mary Strachan, 1925; Elizabeth Heim Burke, 1910; Ethel Hinckley Mayo, 1916; June Seely Morton, 1914; Clare S. Bartholomay, 1891; Josephine Appel Moore, 1912; Evelyn Jackson Prophet, 1911; Anna Foss Jewett, 1909; Vina Holcomb Winsor, 1914; Louise Crawford Johnson, 1915; Clara Hemmeter White, 1919; Marjorie Ray Potter, 1904; Margaret Jennings Bakewell, 1907; Anne Dugan Field, 1909; Sybil Dugan Dillman, 1908; Agnes G. Ready, 1908; Willamine Gardner Cook, 1916; Ida C. Studebaker III, 1918; Grace Unger Masters, 1901; Mary Royster White, 1904; Margaret Clingan Wick, 1912; Helen Winton Jones, 1910; Kathryn Connor Mullen, 1922; Gertrude Hewitt Wood, 1907; Grace Wright Capen, 1894; Stella Ford Schlotman, 1898; Lenora Courts Glancy, 1901; Isabelle Hinman Lammers, 1902; Marjorie Ray Potter, 1904; Alverta Bird Ellis, 1907; Frances H. Gilman, 1918; Dorothy F. Lewis, 1918.

Dues Paid in Full

Miss Willis reports regretfully that quite a number of alumnae listed last year as having paid up all of their dues have fallen slightly from grace this year, but she wishes to add that special mention should be made of the fact that the entire class of 1888 has paid in full.

In addition we have a few more completed dues so that the 1928 additions read—

Mrs. Addie Burr Clark, '88
Mrs. Martha Lemon Cissel, '88
Miss Rachel Coffin, '88
Miss Mary Ada Stinemetz, '88
Mrs. Lee Patterson Smith, '06
Mrs. Dorothy Allyn Seymour, '09
Miss Virginia Hamell, '17
Mrs. Elizabeth Brown Henderson, '19

Long Ago and Far Away

Some bring back our laughter
Some bring back our tears
But would we do without them,
Those precious memoried years?

It is the great privilege of the editors of the 1928 Annual to have in hand copies of the Commencement invitation, the Commencement program, and the Junior entertainment program of the Class of 1878.

It is pleasant to digress a moment here to call attention to one of the little links in the chain of association that binds M. V. S. in such friendly relationship with those with whom she comes in contact. For many years the Alumnae Annual has borne the imprint of the W. F. Roberts Co. Mr. W. F. Roberts himself was the young man who, working for R. Beresford, brought out these very programs which his son has here so beautifully reproduced.

To complete the picture of that festive occasion of fifty years ago, we are more than fortunate in having the actual contemporaneous account of the Commencement. Picture it to yourselves as you read, that important hour, that wonderful hour (a Milestone on Life's Way), very sweet with everyone suddenly so dear, and sad with the delicious sadness that is the perquisite of youth.

Precious little girls of fifty years ago, we are moved to loving laughter by visions of your quaint frocks, your quainter manners and your quaintest thoughts, as in 1928 there may be cause for mirth when 1978 comes around. Not for a moment do we underestimate what you stood for on that day. The little acorn has grown into a mighty oak.

"Society Mirror"

The annual commencement of the Mount Vernon Seminary, which took place at the Foundry M. E. Church on Friday evening, was a most brilliant occasion and attracted a large assemblage of the prominent literary and fashionable people of this city. The rostrum was beautifully decorated with flowers, garlands, evergreens, and growing plants, all arranged skillfully and tastefully. A large monogram M. V. S. made of white and pink roses formed the conspicuous centre-piece; and with the innumerable floral tributes which formed the border, the scene was fairy-like, and made all the brighter by the presence of the young ladies. Upon the rostrum was seated the Rev. Dr. Naylor of Metropolitan Church, Rev. Dr. Lanahan, of Foundry Church; and Rev. Dr. Rankin, of Congregational Church; Mrs. Somers, the principal; Misses Easton, Smallwood, Cohen, Mills and Professors Hayden, Colliere, Messaeus, and Hay, of the faculty; the graduating class and those taking part in the exercises. After Miss Julia May Somers had rendered Handel's "Largo" upon the large organ the services were formally commenced with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Rankin, which was impressively concluded by the vocal class chanting "The Lord's Prayer." Rossini's "Overture to William Tell" was then played upon two grand pianos by Misses Eddy, Pattison, Nash, and Baggs. This was followed by an Essay entitled "The Land of the Heather," by Miss Ida M. Andrus. This was a well written effusion, and read in a clear and distinct manner so that the audience could appreciate her effort. She criticised the Scotch as a people in a most undaunted manner, but happily covered up the faults by the good they have done in contributing to literature much that stands first, and will cause the praises of Scotland to be sung until time is no more.

BENEDICTION.

Beresford, Pr., 523 7th St.

Miss Katie Perry, of the Junior Class, sung "O Luce di Quest Anima," by Donizetti; after which Miss Rankin recited "The Maiden Martyr" in an effective manner, which greatly impressed her hearers. Her voice is pleasant and sympathetic, and the sad but beautiful poem into which she entered with her whole soul gave an excellent test of its culture. Millard's "Flower Girl" was then sung by Miss Nokes, following which Miss Lura Nash read an Essay entitled "There is in Souls a Sympathy with Sounds," a beautiful composition and well read. The subject embraced its many abstract thoughts, all of which were systematically and gracefully blended, and convincing in themselves of the truth of every one, and as the sound of the voice of the charming little lady so rich and musical gave forth her own flowery ideas, she touching the cords within her hearers, and their souls were in sympathy with her own. "The Gypsies Chorus," arranged by Prof. Hayden, was sung by the vocal class. Miss Nokes read an Essay upon "Our Vernacular," a practical and well written Essay, showing considerable information and much thought. While reviewing the language and its formation she very pleasantly treated upon slang, provincialisms, and idioms, introducing many familiar terms which created considerable merriment. After which Misses Nash and Somers performed Von Weber's "Polacca Brillante," and Misses Eddy and Somers, "A Polonaise Militaire." By special request Miss Cattie Stewart, of the junior class, recited the affecting poem, "The Last Hymn," which won such great applause at the Junior entertainment in May, and again she held the audience spell-bound by the magnetism of her voice in the rendition of the pathetic story. Miss Rockwell sang Blumenthal's "Message," and Miss Rankin read the valedictory, which itself was a production of great merit. The "Excelsior," by Misses Stewart and Baggs, was musically the gem of the evening. The Rev. Dr. Naylor, after a thoroughly instructive and apropos address, presented diplomas to the following graduates: Ida M. Andrus, of Indianapolis; Lura Nash, of Ottawa, Ill.; Florence K. Nokes, of Washington, D. C.; Mary F. Rankin, of Washington, D. C. A pleasant scene here occurred by the presentation of a Bible, a token of love and esteem to Miss Easton, one of the members of the faculty, who has accepted a charge in India, and will leave America next week. Miss Easton responded very gracefully. The class sang "Good Night," and the large assemblage dispersed well pleased with the happy occasion, which in every respect reflected credit upon the popular institution, which is gaining so much favor in our city and elsewhere, especially in the West.

One of the most brilliant entertainments of the week was the musical and literary entertainment at the Mount Vernon Seminary, on Friday evening, where were assembled a select company of the friends of Mrs. Somers, the Principal, and the young ladies of this popular institution. The programme was well selected, and rendered in a manner reflecting credit upon those taking part and contributed to the pleasure of an appreciative audience. It was as follows: Duet—"Il Trovatore," Misses Somers and Nash; vocal solo—"Marguerite's Three Bouquets," Miss Perry; reading—"Bertha in the Lane," Miss Annie Baggs; piano solo—"Les Courier," Miss DuBant; reading—"The Legend of the Organ Builder," Miss Cattie Stewart; vocal duet—"Beautiful Moonlight," Misses Perry and Patterson; reading—"A Martyr to St. Patrick's Day," Miss Mollie Landers; solo—"Who is at My Window?" Miss Nokes; reading—"Rabbi Ben Ephraim's Treasure," Miss Addie Smith; solo—"Queen of the Night," Miss Perry; reading—"Miss Muloney on the Chinese Question," Miss Rankin; reading by Mr. Hay; solo—"The Message," Miss Cohen; trio—"Hear Our Prayer," Misses Stewart, Baggs, and Mr. Haynes, of Baltimore. After which time was spent in comments and social conversation, when, by invitation of the estimable principal, the dining hall was thrown open and the guests enjoyed the plentiful supply of good and wholesome refreshments which was spread before them. Midnight was the signal for farewells, which, with praises of a gala time, were said.

"The Chastening"

One of the rare events of the school year was the presentation of Charles Rann Kennedy's one-act play, "The Chastening." The players were "Mary," Edith Wynne Matthison; "Joseph," Charles Rann Kennedy; and "the Lad," Margaret Gage.

Print is a cold medium for presenting the beauty and tenderness, the humor and humanity, the strength and spirituality of that little scene but we quote from a newspaper account of unusual appreciation:

"The story concerns the life of Jesus at the time he was about 12 years of age, and had begun to display precocious wisdom before the famous scholars of the day, in such manner as to mystify His mother * * * and utterly to confound Joseph * * *.

"Interspersed with deft touches of humor and using the determination of Joseph to make the lad a carpenter as the antagonistic force, the play moves forward with reverence and compelling strength. The lad used parables to interpret His dreams of the future. He disclosed to His mother the inevitable end of His mission on earth.

"It was in the mother's grief, grasping the awful significance of the impending cross, that Miss Matthison rose to the heights, revealing the unutterable anguish of the mother heart * * *.

"Mr. Kennedy was intensely human as Joseph. His humorous interjections into the spiritual tensity provided welcome relief and he swung into fervor of spiritual revelation in the lines he had written with fine feeling.

"The role of the Christ, always difficult and hazardous to essay, was acceptably portrayed by Miss Gage. The production concluded with the revelation to Mary and Joseph of the vision of Christ's mission * * *. At the close, asleep on His mother's shoulder, Joseph then takes Him in his arms, under his cloak and the three slowly make their way from the stage."

The Elizabeth Somers Glee Club

A new feature of the Y. W. C. A. that is of especial interest to the Alumnæ Association is a musical organization composed of girls living at the "Elizabeth Somers," and directed by Miss Imogene Ireland, head of the Y. W. C. A. music department. Its first concert was given March 13th, in Barker Hall, the auditorium of the new Y. W. C. A. building. The name, "The Elizabeth Somers Glee Club," of course attracted resident "old girls" of M. V. S. and the Faculty who, with the Choral Club of school and its director, Miss Payne, attended that first concert.

The Glee club was composed of about thirty members and although the majority of the individual voices were untrained, the tone quality was excellent and the rather exacting program, sung entirely from memory, was beautifully rendered. The club was assisted by a delightful New York soprano, Miss Marian Holmes, and a young Washington violinist of unusual talent, Miss Evelyn Scott.

Since the initial performance the Elizabeth Somers Club has sung successfully on several other occasions, establishing for itself a name among musical organizations.

Special Notice

Mount Vernon Seminary notes with a sense of deep and personal loss the death of Miss Jessie Claire McDonald, principal of the National Cathedral School for Girls.

Miss McDonald died shortly after an emergency operation following an unexpected illness. She was on her vacation and had seemed to be benefited by it. Her body was brought to Washington where it lay in the school, which she had so capably served, until 11 A. M., August 14th, when the funeral services were held in Bethlehem Chapel, Washington Cathedral. The burial services were read by Right Reverend James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, assisted by Very Reverend G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of the cathedral. The body then lay in the chapel until afternoon when the funeral party left for Indianapolis, Miss McDonald's birthplace. She was buried in Crown Hill cemetery on Wednesday.

Our interest in Miss McDonald is more than that of the members of one school for the beloved and able head of another; Miss McDonald was once a pupil of our own M. V. S., a tiny girl learning her early lessons in personal contact with that best of teachers, our own Mrs. Somers, at 204 F Street.

IN MEMORIAM

Lucy Lauck Houghton, Died October 28, 1927

It is with the deepest sorrow and regret that the class of 1909 records the death of Lucy Lauck Houghton. Loyal friend, devoted wife and mother—her stay brought only joy; her passing is but a step into a broader life.

To her husband and children we extend our love and sympathy.

ELSIE FOERDERER,
MARIE STEWART LABAT.

IN MEMORIAM

Sarah Wartman, Died October 10, 1927

It is with deep regret that we have learned of the death of Sarah Wartman.

Peace to thy gentle spirit!
Christ was thy hope and stay,
His truth a lamp unto thy feet
His word a light upon thy way.

PERSONALS

In 1927 about 380 Annuals were mailed to alumnæ, and the response to the detailed request of the harried Personals editor was exactly ONE.

Of course personals came by word of mouth and indirectly (through letters to Miss Cole and others) but so many essential facts were missing in most of them that the work of preparation of the following sometimes meager items was greater than the compilation of all the rest of the Annual together.

The school body can be no more vital than the individuals who compose it, and our great interest is in those individuals, our classmates and friends. We beg your cooperation in "personals" collecting for another year, and ask that you make their use possible by giving the maiden name, the class year, and in marriage, birth and death notices the year as well as the month date. All such news may be addressed to the Personals editor, Alumnæ Annual, M. V. S.

This year the Personals editor is deeply indebted to the indefatigable Miss Walker, and the Faculty member of the Editorial staff for special help. Elizabeth Paxton, '25, was the 100% alumna who wrote a chatty letter about herself and others, addressed it to the Personals editor and mailed it in good season!

PERSONALS EDITOR.

The Faculty and Household, Past and Present

Miss Cole is ensconced in a real villa at Cragmoor, New York. The last two months of school were very anxious ones for her owing to Miss Guard's illness, but we hope the fall will find her greatly refreshed by her outing and rest.

Miss Guard, though not quite her vivacious self, is slowly but surely recovering from her attack of appendicitis and subsequent operation. She is with Miss Cole at Cragmoor and we hope will return to M. V. S. in her old vim, vigor and vitality.

Miss Beulah J. Carpenter, our English teacher and Junior class advisor, is studying at Oxford this summer, perfecting a study in which she already excels.

Another popular member of the Faculty, Miss Mildred Hanna, instructor in Latin, is summering in Europe—attending some sort of educational convention in Perugia. She expects to go to Germany and England before returning to M. V. S. in October.

Miss Louisa Martin, our well beloved nurse, is taking a much needed rest from her labors for a year. We hope she will be much benefitted by the change. She will be greatly missed.

Miss Harriet Belle Walker, friend and counsellor of all M. V. S.ers is going to Columbia University for six weeks to do some "reflective thinking." After those thoughtful week she will go to Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, to do nothing less delightful than enjoy to the fullest extent the Doughty family—our own Helen Yeatman, '18, her husband, the small adorable Frances Harriet and Anne Cornelia and the wonderful brand new twins, Charles Jr., and Mary Louise.

Miss Carroll just can't keep on this side of the ocean. This year she has the best of excuses—her family is in Europe and naturally wants her there.

Miss Hill has gone out to Steubenville for a time at least. Where she will go from there is a question—probably to Atlantic City again.

Miss Brouse and Miss Trippett have gone to Wisconsin for the summer to be neighbors to the President. It is hoped it will not be so cold as it was last summer in Maine.

Miss Payne has gone up to Cragmoor, New York, to spend some time with Miss Cole and Miss Guard.

Miss Barber is contemplating a trip to the West. She is a hard worker and deserves the best of vacations.

Miss Blakeslee also looks to the West for invigoration and rest.

Miss Burgess and Miss Lux are spending their vacation together at Monhegan Island, Maine, which, so says Miss Burgess, reminds one of Labrador.

Miss Hayward is teaching at Miss Davis' camp, Waukeela, in Conway, New Hampshire. She is leaving M. V. S. and next winter will take up her new work of teaching English in a private school in Washington state.

Mrs. McAllister is spending the summer with a niece in Pennsylvania. Miss Martin is hopeful of persuading her to spend part of the vacation in New Brunswick.

The last we heard of Mrs. Forman, she was yachting off the New York coast. We wonder if she misses giving "permissions to go shopping" this summer?

Miss Elting is in that vague territory, "up in New York state," for her vacation. We hope her mysterious retreat is a delightful one.

Miss Faulkner, who is leaving us to take an executive position in a private school in New York city, was last heard from in that wonderful land of Nova Scotia.

Miss Chickering has evaded us but our good wishes follow her wherever she may be.

Miss Myers is "seeing Washington and surrounding country" with her mother during the month of July. There won't be a place within a radius of forty miles that she will miss. Bus rides are her mania.

Mlle. Moulé has been spending the summer in her apartment at Pelham Courts. We hope if the weather is as warm as it frequently is in our beloved Washington, she will leave for a little time, at least.

Mme. Peltier set out most expeditiously for her native heath at the first moment possible after school closed.

Miss Hopkins looks forward to a pleasant summer with her nieces in Takoma Park. Later she is going to North Carolina with other relatives. Her modest idea of a vacation there is "a chance to talk to the whippoorwills"!

A note of regret that she could not attend the Reunion assures us that Miss Ashley loves us still.

The many pupils of Mr. Harvey Murray, for many years a member of our musical faculty, will be interested to hear that a reception was given him and his wife (Villa Welsh, '79) by the Society of the Covenant in honor of Mr. Murray's thirty years of service as organist of the Church of the Covenant. The reception, which followed a meeting of the Society, was followed by an interesting musical program.

Miss Rickett, accompanied by her daughter Peggy, who is teaching English at Wisconsin University, sailed for England in June to spend the summer with relatives.

A new member of our musical faculty next year will be Miss Katharine Riggs, one of Washington's prominent musicians. She has been, for a number of years, one of the leading harpists in this city, having been not only a teacher but a soloist greatly in demand for church and other concerts. She has been studying this summer in London.

Miss Messenger, our one-time Literary advisor, has recently found time not only for study, but to write a Latin text book.

All M. V. S.ers will be sorry to learn that Martha has not been feeling well lately. We hope that fall will find her rested and strong.

Poor old Junior has lost one perfectly good eye but still retains the affections of those who have long loved him for his own sake, and for that of his one-time mistress, our beloved Mrs. Hensley.

Class of 1877

Those present at the 1928 Reunion were very sorry that Mary Stewart Carey was in Europe instead of at M. V. S.

We shall never forget her stimulating presence in Jubilee year.

Does anyone know the address of Juliet Evarts Robb?

Class of 1878

The Class of 1878 made a good showing for its Jubilee year with two of its three living members present. Miss Andrus, unfortunately, was abroad.

Mr. Griggs accompanied Lura Nash Griggs on this great occasion which we hope they both enjoyed as much as we did. Granddaughter Laura Florence Storey, aged thirteen, is being trained by Grandmother for M. V. S.

Florence Katharine Noakes has had the unpleasant experience of several weeks imprisonment on account of rheumatism, but she has not let her suffering or the disruption of her summer plans diminish either her courage or her optimism. We wish her a complete and speedy recovery.

Classes of 1879 and 1880

We regret that we have no report from either of these classes.

Class of 1881

Mrs. Edward Tune and her twin sister celebrated their 88th birthday on March 12, 1928. The sister died on March 31st. Mrs. Tune is the mother of Frances Adelaide Tune, '81, and Edna H. Tune, '90.

The inseparable twins, Anne Ames and Cornelia Morgan, are taking their usual flight to their beloved Chautauqua this summer. Not long before they left, Anne had an accident that was a narrow escape from a fatality. A large picture fell from a wall, striking her on the forehead and severing a vein. Fortunately the "other twin" was there and rendered prompt and efficient first aid until the doctor could do his part, and the danger was over.

Personally we think that a course in any kind of thinking for Harriet Belle is as unnecessary as a fur coat for a robin, but just read what else she is doing(see the Faculty personals).

Does anyone know the address of Alma Marie Hogue Baxter?

Classes of 1882-1886

We greatly regret the absence of news from the members of these classes. We haven't even heard from that cat without whom Agnes Inch, '85, could hardly keep house.

Class of 1887

Augusta Eighmey has been spending the past year in that land of mystery and history, Egypt.

It is impossible to fancy a Reunion without Grace Willis, praising us for our financial triumphs, gently but firmly chiding us for our financial shortcomings. It is such a pleasure to make her happy by paying up past dues that we wonder how anyone has the heart to refrain!

Class of 1888

The Class of 1888 deserves special mention this year for its fine record of attending its fortieth reunion with every member present and every one's dues paid in full for all those forty years!

Miss Cole was the guest of honor at a dinner given by Mary Bradford Stone during Commencement week for the Class. Maria Baldwin came over from Baltimore to take part in the Reunion and was Mary's guest for the week-end. Another pleasant social occasion was the tea given by Rachel Coffin and Nannie Skillman at their apartment.

Addie Burr Clark was a guest of M. V. S. for Commencement week as well as toastmistress at the Luncheon.

At the Reunion a complete set of the pictures of the Class of 1888 was presented to the School by Mary Bradford Stone and a group photograph of the class by Mattie Lemon Cissell.

Mattie Lemon Cissell spent the summer at her cottage in Washington Grove, Md.

Rachel Coffin and Nanie Skillman (another famous set of "twins") went vacationing together before going to their camp in New Hampshire.

Mary Bradford Stone, her husband and their younger son, Winchester, motored to Severn Cross Roads in August to be week-end guests of Maria Baldwin and Katharine Morgan Joyce, '86. Maria entertained them at dinner at the famous tavern of Revolutionary days, the Rising Sun Inn, which has now become the property of the Anne Arundel chapter of the D. A. R.

Clara Ford Nesbit and her husband went as usual to their favorite haunts—Cape Cod, Marblehead and the White Mountains.

Ada Steinmetz sailed in June for Nova Scotia, escaping we hope, the intense heat of this year's July in Washington.

On June 5, 1928, Jane Perry Clark, daughter of Addie Burr Clark, received the Robert Noxon Toppan prize given by Columbia University for the best essay on constitutional law. This is the first time this prize has ever been awarded to a woman. Jane stood second in a class of one hundred and ten men at the Columbia commencement. Last winter she lectured at Mt. Holyoke College, taking the place of the Director of the Department of Economics who was on leave.

Class of 1889

Anna King Bean made her usual visit to her sister, Mrs. W. K. Butler, mother of Eleanor Butler Wales, '18, at Christmas time. We suggest that Anna make a second visit in 1929 at the time of the Reunion.

Class of 1890

Edith Cook Durand, en route from Illinois to Dorset, Vermont, for the summer, sent M. V. S. her unflagging love and interest.

See the very interesting and unusual episode concerning Edna Tune's mother and aunt which is noted among the items of 1881, the class of Edna's sister Frances.

Class of 1891

We greatly regret having no news from the members of this class.

Does anyone know the address of Mary Chiles Dennis?

Class of 1892

Anna Hasselman has for several years past been one of the secretaries and instructors at the John Herron Art Institute at Indianapolis.

Does anyone know the address of Catherine Brown Severance?

Class of 1893

Elsie Edwards and Grace Janney, '00, bid fair to become another pair of M. V. S. twins. One of the ties that binds these two is a passion for cats. That the interest is reciprocated by one cat at least the Personals editor can affirm, having seen unmistakable evidence of attraction between the two and her own grey; "Mink."

Elsie went to New York early in September to meet her niece who has been spending the summer in Europe. Later, they joined Anna Hasselman, '92, in East Gloucester for two weeks of sketching.

Does anyone know the address of Blanche Barnitz Stocking?

Class of 1894

One of the interesting marriages of July, 1928, was that of Marguerite Rusling Mesney to Mr. Frank Hartig, Jr. Marguerite is the daughter of Mazie Brown Mesney.

Does anyone know the address of Edith Hancock Allen?

Class of 1895

Does anyone know the address of Marguerite Otis Williams?

Class of 1896

Mary Lutz Lemon, who has been recovering from an operation, has spent a quiet summer, vacationing only for a short time at the seashore with her sisters.

Classes of 1897 and 1898

Again we regret to report "no news."

Does anyone know the address of Sallie Katherine Conn, '97?

Class of 1899

May Libby is doing something this year that is particularly interesting and worth-while. She has inaugurated a play school for children between 5 and 10 years at the Pines, Cotuit, Cape Cod, Mass. There are plays for sunshiny days and plays (indoors) for those rainy days that are so often difficult for mothers of small and lively youngsters. May's experience in the Chevy Chase Country Day School, and her tremendous interest in, and enthusiasm for, her work are sure to make it a success. What wouldn't we have given last year to have seen her mites of French pupils in the Country Day School in their all-French play, "Dans un Café Française"!

Class of 1900

Lucy Tolerton Kirkley claims that she is so busy rushing around doing things that she never does anything worth recording. Her two charming daughters testify that she certainly has done many things worth while. Mary, the elder daughter, sees her mother only during week-ends this summer. Eleanor, just on the verge of high school, has been camping at Lake Huntington and "adores it." She is carrying off many honors and her mother writes, "After her home coming, my cottage will be gay and frivolous with young girls." O, lucky Lucy!

Franceska Kaspar Lawson, who has been unable to be with us for a Reunion for some time, was present this year and took a lively interest in every part of the program. Franceska is each year more absorbed in her music. She makes rather a specialty of singing before college bodies and has traveled quite a bit lately for that purpose.

Classes of 1901 and 1902

Unfortunately we have no news from the twenty-five surviving members of these two classes.

Class of 1903

Anne Hamilton McIntosh regretted her inability to attend the 1928 Reunion, giving the all-sufficient reason of illness in her family. We hope the little folk have entirely recovered from the wretched grippe which was making them so miserable and causing their mother natural distress.

Elizabeth Babcock, not able to attend the Reunion of 1928, recalls the great pleasure she had in the wonderful Jubilee celebration of 1925.

Classes of 1904 and 1905

We hope another year to have an interesting "personal" from every member of these two classes!

Does anyone know the address of Olive Simes, '04?

Does anyone know the addresses of Elizabeth Marquis Musick, or of Mary Alice Maydell Delany, both of '05?

Class of 1906

Dr. Alice Patterson Shibley of Washington, D. C., who died at Ft. Sill, Okla., was the mother of Marian Lee Patterson Smith. She had spent the year with Lee and her husband and three children (David Patterson, aged nine, Betty Brewster, five, and baby Arthur Goode, born on Christmas Day, 1926) Dr. Shibley was one of the pioneer osteopaths of the country, having practiced in Washington for thirty years and will be remembered by old girls who were her patients—as were Mrs. Somers, Mrs. Hensley and many others of the school family.

After cremation, Dr. Shibley's ashes were buried in Rock Creek cemetery in Washington. A very beautiful memorial service was held in the picturesque and historic old Post Chapel where Lee plays the organ.

Before joining M. V. S., our beloved "Miss Hoppy," was Dr. Shibley's efficient and well loved secretary.

Class of 1907

Alverta Bird Ellis served as a page for the D. A. R. annual convention in Washington before visiting School in April last.

Gertrude Hewitt Wood was a welcome visitor to M. V. S. in September after she had placed her oldest son in school in Pennsylvania.

Margaret Jennings Bakewell visited the school during the spring vacation. She brought with her her adorable little girl, whom she entered as a future pupil, and her sturdy little son.

Helen Kingsbury Myers has completed one year as a member of the staff of M. V. S. She loves everything about school from the Head Mistress down and though she finds it a strenuous life, she thinks it is well worth living.

ington for parts unknown. Please let us share your experiences, Agnes, and don't forget to give us any change you may make in your address.

Edith Fry Patterson is taking a cottage again this season at Bay Head, New Jersey. Her eldest daughter, Katharine Edmonston Patterson, graduated from Potomac School on June first and then went to Camp Hanover, Vermont, for two months.

Does anyone know the address of Mildred Johnston Parker?

Classes of 1908-1914

The only news from this long stretch of years is from the classes of 1909, 1910, 1911 and 1913, marriages, births and deaths, found in their special places preceding the Personals.

Does anyone know the addresses of Marguerite Marvin Schmitt, or Julia White Burrows, all of 1908?

Does anyone know the addresses of Florence V. Brown or Alice C. McCrew Austin, both of 1909?

Class of 1915

Naomi Hoffman was unable to attend the 1928 Reunion because she was playing in a concert. M. V. S. rejoices in every occasion that forwards the usefulness or adds luster to the names of her illustrious daughters.

Ruth Orton Camp spent three weeks at Miami Beach with Helen Blodgett Erwin this past winter.

Class of 1916

Julia MacLaren Witten spent Commencement week with Helen Blodgett Erwin, '15.

"Duffer" Gardiner Cook, who was spending the winter at Miami Beach with her children, saw much of Ruth Orton Camp, '15, and Helen Blodgett Erwin. Later, on her way north, Duffer and her husband and children spent a week-end with Helen.

Class of 1917

Virginia Hamill who was Secretary of French Club in 1917 was Executive Director of the International Exposition of Art and Industry presented May 14-26, '28, at Macy's in New York City.

Classes of 1918-1920

These three classes are all represented in the special notices under "Marriages," "Births" or "Deaths," but no other personals have reached us concerning them.

Class of 1921

Mildred Williamson has been having a wonderful year of study.

"I spent last semester at Radcliffe working on a Masters in Fine Arts," she writes, "I had a delightful course in Aesthetics, tore out handfuls of hair over Santayana and the somewhat foggy, 'Psychical distance.' Professor Goldschmidt from the University of Berlin gave a delightful course in Dutch painting. It is the kind of thing that thrills the soul. Song hours at Fenway Court were perfect."

Does anyone know the address of Morna Stewart?

Classes of 1922-1924

We feel sure that there is much interesting news we have missed from these three years.

Does anyone know the address of Jane Robinson Hartman, '23?

Class of 1925

Elizabeth Paxton stands in a class by herself as an out-of-town alumna responding enthusiastically to last year's plea for personals. Read the Personals editor's eulogy at the beginning of this department.

Elizabeth tells us that never again will she diet. After a summer's illness resulting therefrom she regained her strength only in the saddle above "Kid Boots," her new and prized possession. By Thanksgiving her strength and energy had so returned that she had bought and wrapped all of her Christmas gifts! Also, Elizabeth was looking forward to entering her father's business on December 31st. Even the prospect of being at work at 7.30 A.M. had no terrors for her. As a "working woman" herself, the Personals editor is a little confused by the subsequent statement in the letter, "We are planning on taking the Panama canal trip after Christmas, landing in California where I hope to see lots of old M. V. S. friends * * *." If that is included in the opening of a business career in California, then, say we, "Ho, for California!"

"We had our first M. V. S. club meeting at Dorothy Davidson's where Wilma McFarland, '27, was chosen President and Emma Ritchie, '24, was chosen Secretary," wrote Elizabeth. "Our next meeting was at Katharine Beeson Webster's. She has a darling new house. We sew squares (diapers) for the Salvation Army Rescue Home and then have tea."

Elizabeth tells us also that Pat Healy is in her second year at the University of California.

Class of 1926

Eleanor Haigh Gow sent her love and regrets to M. V. S. since she was unable to attend the Reunion.

Evaleen Thompson has been attending Washington University.

Class of 1927

Elizabeth Council, who was obliged to send her regrets for the Alumnæ luncheon, has had a most interesting winter in New York studying for the stage. She will continue the work next year unless she finds the chance for the actual stage experience which is her aim.

Kathleen Sheldon writes that she has "done nothing since I left school but make my debut and travel, all of which though loads of fun, is not very constructive, I'm afraid."

Kathleen, we are sure you may be allowed one year for "just larks." She reported having seen Mary Lillian Adams in California and Palmer Dallis in New York, both eager to talk of days at M. V. S.

A very interesting letter from Beatrice Masterson tells of her experiences in Wisconsin University. She finds life there totally unlike the "home circle" of M. V. S. and yet wonderfully interesting and stimulating. At the moment of writing she and Dorothy Thompson were facing the traditional and proper terror of the "Wisconsin semi-annual fountain pen marathon," i. e., the university finals. Dorothy's letter suggests that an M. V. S. reunion at Wisconsin University would almost be possible. She writes that "Anne Young, '26, came here last fall * * *. Lois Lasater attended this semester, so with Pauline Myer and Isabelle Cunningham who were both here last year, Beatrice and I are able to find good company to talk over past school days."

Class of 1928

We regret that we were not able to have a detailed report on the activities of our "baby" class. Catherine Evatt has risen nobly to the alumna spirit and offers to be responsible for class news in the years to come if her classmates will keep in touch with her. Please do.

Jessie Clark sailed for Europe on August 18th.

Virginia Harris and Eleanor Miller have been travelling together in Europe all summer. September first will see them home again, after which Eleanor will go to New York for the winter and Virginia to Boston. Virginia expects to study music.

Esther Goetz has been visiting in California, that favorite meeting place for so many of our girls. She expects soon to go to Europe for the study of art.

Elizabeth Roberts has had a disappointing summer having to be ill instead of gay. We hope the winter will have compensations, Elizabeth.

Dorothea Sigel has been another one of our European travellers this summer.

Edna Sherman has entered Stanford and has even now begun her work there.

All the class will be glad to hear that Anne Hearne has recovered from the nervous condition that made it necessary for her to leave school before Graduation.

Catherine Evatt has been at Swampscott all summer and is looking forward to Boston, stenography and filing this winter.

ALUMNAE REUNION MEETING, MAY, 1929

MINUTES

The Fifty-fourth Annual Meeting of the Alumnae Association of Mount Vernon Seminary was held in Great Hall of the school on May 25, 1929, at eleven o'clock.

Miss Elsie Foerderer being in Europe, Mrs. Elizabeth Swartzell Davis, the First Vice-President, called the meeting to order.

Miss Helen Myers introduced the incoming Class of 1929, twenty-two in number.

Mrs. Davis greeted the new members as follows:

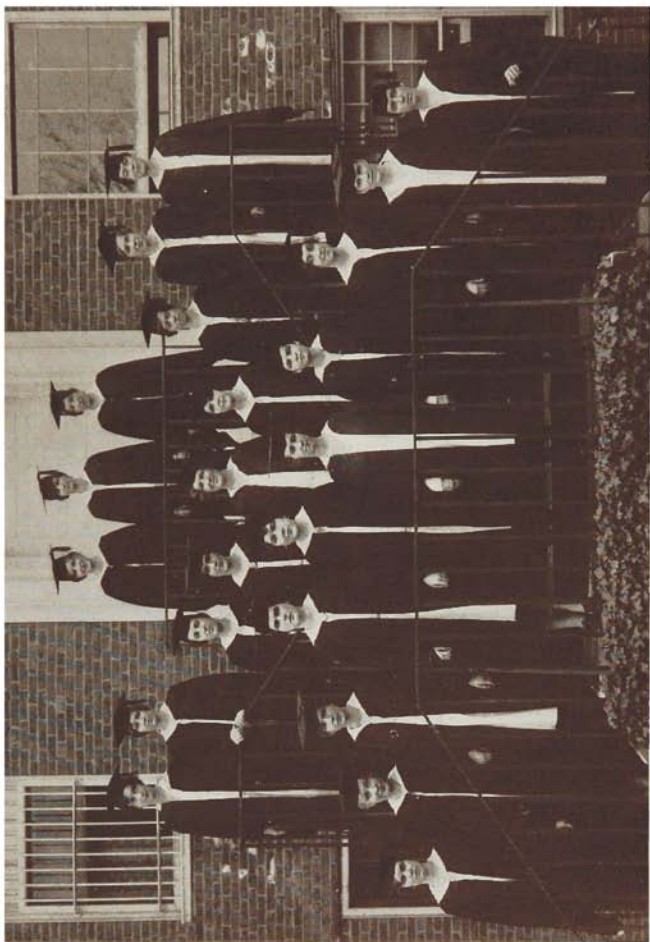

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1929:

It is with very real regret that my absence abroad makes it impossible for me to welcome you personally into membership in The Alumnae Association. I know, however, that my fellow officers will give you that personal greeting which privilege is denied to me.

As members of the graduating class you are about to leave M. V. S. prepared to enter a larger life. If you have made the most of your opportunities here, you are ready to enter that life armed with an understanding of spiritual values, a sense of fidelity to the right, obedience to high purposes and a realization of what true service signifies.

You have accepted the riches this school has bestowed upon you, and I am confident that you now stand ready to serve its noble aims in the capacity of Alumnae members.

As you leave here and enter upon your life work I hope that it is with an ever-deepening sense of your obligation to your Alma Mater; an obligation on the part of each one, to always bring to her your individual measure of understanding, of loyalty and of helpfulness, so that in these combined individual measures, your school, its head mistress, its faculty and this Association may be the better able to carry forward those standards which will make for an ever greater M. V. S.

SENIOR CLASS

As president of the Alumnae Association, I welcome you into membership trusting that you are willing to contribute your share towards the fulfillment of the ideals of our school.

Faithfully yours,

ELSIE FOERDERER.

Miss Alexander, president of the Class of 1929, responded as follows:

Madame President and Members of the Association, on behalf of the Senior Class, I want to tell you how proud we are to be joining your ranks. The spirit of the Association has always been deeply felt in the school, and it is the interest and love of the old girls which give M. V. S. its atmosphere. It is a real pleasure to see you all again, those whom we have known in past years and those whom we are greeting for the first time.

Once again, we are proud that you are willing to share with us the privileges of attending your meetings and of bearing the name of M. V. S. Alumnae.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The Treasurer presented the following report:

The Elizabeth Somers Chapel Report was written by Miss Ames and read by Miss Walker.

Mrs. Davis, at the conclusion of the reading, said, "you have listened to a most beautiful report."

Miss Walker moved that it be accepted with gratitude; it was so voted.

Miss Walker read the Treasurer's Report of the Mount Vernon Seminary Society as follows:

H. B. WALKER,
Treasurer.

Miss Walker, also, read a note of thanks from Miss Gibson of the Children's Hospital, thanking the Society for their generous gift of an electric refrigerator. She spoke of three deserving families, and asked if it be the pleasure of the meeting to give one hundred dollars to one of these cases, or divide it among them. Mrs. Davis suggested that this be left to the Mount Vernon Seminary Society. It was moved and seconded.

The following changes in the Constitution, which were approved at the April meeting, were read:

Article 3, Section 2

The duties of the Editorial Committee shall be to edit and publish an ANNUAL REPORT of the Alumnae Association. Omit the following sentence: "Each member of the Editorial Committee shall serve as Chairman of said Committee in her last year of office."

Article 3, Section 1

Officers shall be elected for one year, with the exception of the Editorial Committee which shall serve three years. At the first election the three members of the Editorial Committee shall be appointed for terms of one, two and three years, respectively. As each vacancy falls due, one new member shall be elected for the full three-year term. Omit all after the words: "Officers shall be elected for one year."

Article 3, Section 2

Omit: "Each member of the Editorial Committee shall serve as Chairman of said Committee in her last year of office." Also omit the same sentence in—

Article 1, Section 7, of the By-Laws.

A motion was made and seconded to accept these changes, and it was so voted.

An appropriation not to exceed $150 was voted upon and carried, to cover the expenses of the Alumnæ Luncheon.

The roll was called by classes by Miss Cole.

Ann Woodburn Baggs was welcomed on her fiftieth anniversary of graduation.

Mrs. Davis spoke with sadness of the death of Mrs. Eddy, wife of Mrs. Somer's brother and mother of Josephine Eddy, and also of the death of Alice Wilson, Class of 1901, and Helen Philips, Class of 1921.

Miss Walker announced the death of Mrs. Murphy, Class of 1878.

Mrs. Davis read a telegram and several notes from absent girls, whose thoughts were with us.

Six members of the Class of 1899, two of whom are mothers of girls now attending the school, were present for their thirtieth anniversary.

Miss Cole spoke most interestingly of the growth of Mount Vernon Seminary and of the necessity of enlarged facilities. She showed a drawing of the dreams for the future, which she hoped would soon be a reality. She told how it had been proposed to put a street through back of the shelter. In order to avoid this being done, the school had recently added nine acres to the twenty-one already owned, thus fulfilling one of the most immediate needs of the school. She spoke of the startling increase in the price of land and said that Mount Vernon Seminary was desirous of obtaining three more acres, if possible. Then she told of the need of a studio building, and library, and expressed the hope that some kind fairy would give us one, or both; otherwise, it would mean an enlarged enrollment to pay for these additions, which enlargement she did not consider desirable. She spoke here of the individual care given the smaller number of girls—in case of an enlarged enrollment, there would have to be more rooms, larger power house and laundry, and so on, from one step to another. She spoke of the field-house already started, the school having loaned the money to the Home Economics Class. It is to be a tea-house, and arrangements have been made to have for sale various things which the girls might be in need of, such as cotton stockings, etc. Delightful arrangements for dinners and luncheons have been planned. Miss Cole also spoke of an outdoor gymnasium, with basketball court and tennis courts with open sides, which should be built because of the long winter months when the bad weather made such games impossible.

It was a most delightful talk and an inspiration for the future of the school.

There being no further business, Mrs. Walker moved an adjournment.

Respectfully submitted,

(Signed) RUTH BROWNE BLAIR,
Recording Secretary.

RBB/n

A delicious luncheon followed the business meeting, and at the close of this, Blanche Polkinhorn, of the Class of 1895, Toastmistress of the occasion, introduced the following:

Anna Baggs Koehne, of the Class of 1879
May Day Boyd, of the Class of 1904
Alice Stone Farmer, Class of 1904

Grace Hills Woodland, Class of 1904
Helen Palmer Andrus Pinkham, Class of 1899
Jean Syminton, Class of 1929.

The President of the Class of 1904 was unable to attend and sent the following letter:

Madame President, Miss Cole, and Members of the Alumnae Association:

Picture if you can the sixteen girls who graduated from M. V. S. twenty-five years ago. With skirts long and full, sleeves long and snug, pompadours high and tightly drawn at the sides, they proudly marched down the aisle of the New Willard Hotel Ball Room to receive their diplomas from Mrs. Hensley. They were just as happy as you girls of 1929, just as proud that they were to receive those hard-earned diplomas, and just as glad that school work was over. They knew their school days at 1100 M had been joyous ones and their last year at Senior House best of all.

They didn't realize, however, how much the home-like environment; the broadening influence of their schoolmates, the gracious charm, sweetness, understanding, and foresight of Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley would mean in after years, nor did they appreciate, as they now do the pride they would always feel in being graduates of M. V. S.

Now skirts are short, sleeves are often missing and hair is bobbed or simply dressed for graduates of 1929, and for those of 1904 as well, but the hearts of both beat in harmony with love for M. V. S.

1904 brings congratulations to 1929 and earnest wishes for happiness and fulfillment of known and dormant hopes.

1904 brings renewed affection to old friends: Miss Ames, Miss Guard, Miss Katherine, Miss Walker, and all others.

1904 brings allegiance to Miss Cole and her corps of assistants and feels pride in the accomplishments of today and 1904 proposes a toast to M. V. S.

To M. V. S. where friendships are made, characters formed and worthy ideals adopted.

May M. V. S. live long and continue to be the inspiration to all her girls scattered far and wide that she has always been.

ALICE MARJORIE RAY POTTER, 1904

TOAST TO M. V. S.

The lull of dawning on the city lies,
As fade the stars and night's deep sapphire blue;
There on Saint Alban's Mount the soft wind sighs,
Before it turns to greet the roseate hue
Of day's first blush behind the Gothic Church;
More brilliant now God paints this morning sky
With tints elusive of man's mortal search;
But, quick, it fades before the color's dry!
So, fast our year is drawing to its end
All that we cherish most, most prize,
Traditions fair, we leave to you to fend,
Trusting the loyalty that binds our ties.

Our day is done; the amber sunset's shine
Of brighter days to come, the glowing sign.

JEAN SYMINTON, '29.

THE ELIZABETH SOMERS CHAPEL

ANNUAL REPORT, 1929

Now that our beautiful Chapel has no further encumbrances in things financial, we, of the Chapel Committee, have automatically been promoted from an anxious Body of "Ways and Means" to a serene "Guild of Gold, Frankincense and Myrrh" and have the pleasant task of dispensing such money as comes in to enrich and add in loveliness to the Chapel. At the time of the Golden Jubilee several most generous financial gifts were sent us leaving us the privilege of selection; and we decided to put no time limit on our selection but to wait until it was worthy to be a gift or a memorial of permanent value and beauty.

This year two of these have been selected: one a gift, the other a Memorial. During the Triennial Episcopal Convention in October there was an Exhibit from England of Ecclesiastical art and there were quite lovely church vases. Miss Cole and I had several interviews with this firm and finally ordered from our measurements a beautiful and stately brass vase, simple and colonial and quite large enough, standing as it does more than twenty inches in height and six or seven inches in diameter at the top of the bowl, to adequately hold flowers and be placed either on the great table, or at the base of the Chancel window. The vase was designed and made in England and was lettered there with this inscription:

A Golden Jubilee Gift

Presented by

Mrs. C. Hilty Hase

Mother of

Mrs. Julia Hase Becherer

Class of 1929

The vase came for Christmas. The Memorial is the gift of Mrs. Charles Covode Davis, who presented the wonderful brass Colonial candlesticks in memory of her Mother Mrs. Mary Naylor Swartzell, our first graduate. Nothing could be more suitable than these tall candlesticks, thirty inches in height, in honor of our first Alumna, who fifty-three years ago lighted that shining path of high idealism and spiritual vision which, embodied from Mother to daughter, still is the symbol of M. V. S. It is not surprising that the daughter of that first graduate presided this morning to greet our youngest alumnæ.

One more gift, not yet installed, is a wonderful Lunette, being made in Italy under the superintendence of our Alumna President Elsie Foerderer, but planned by Miss Cole. It is a very beautiful copy in the blue and white of a Luca della Robbia and will bring a rich touch of color in our Chapel. Several individual gifts which we have in hand will help to swell the cost of this lovely piece of art, but we still lack more than half of its cost so that any Alumna who wishes to be numbered in the list of donors will have an opportunity before it comes to this country. The last gift is the word from the Chicago Chapter, who voted in the Spring Meeting "to raise $500.00 by Voluntary contributions for the Chapel." May the Chairman of the Chapel Committee voice her deep appreciation not alone for this splendid promise, but for the abiding loyalty of that Chapter that has given so generously and finely from the very beginning. Indeed every Chapter has done magnificent work and nothing better illustrates it than the Chapel itself.

So again appreciation and greetings go out to every Chapter and every M. V. S. girl. Together we have worked and toiled and not in vain, as in beauty and in spiritual import your Chapel and mine stands in this fair spot as the symbol of whatsoever things are lovely, and whatsoever things are true.

SCHOOL EVENTS

1928-29 was a banner year for interesting events. The Wednesday morning assemblies afforded opportunity to hear some of the outstanding figures in the political, literary, musical, and educational world. Such speakers as Mr. Drew Pearson, of the U. S. Daily; Mrs. Speel, Mrs. Harriman, Director of the American Opera Company; Sr. Vitette, of the Italian Embassy; Doctor MacCracken, President of Vassar; Felix Mahoney, the cartoonist and former Commissioner of Labor; our own Elise Dufour Pinchon; and others made these Wednesday morning assemblies most attractive.

There were a number of musical programs given by the pupils of Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Rickett, Miss Winston, Mr. Torvosky, and Miss Riggs. They were especially well-rendered and enjoyed by the whole school body.

Dramatics:

- Christmas Party.
- Senior Play.
- Hallowe'en Party.
- Ingenuity Contests.
- Founder's Day.

THE CHRISTMAS PARTY

An event eagerly looked forward to from year to year is the Christmas Party for the servants. There is always a Christmas tree towering over everybody and loaded down with gifts for the children. The girls presented "Why The Chimes Rang" by Elizabeth Apthorp McFadden, with Eloise Wilmsen in the leading rôle as Holger. As the play ended Santa Claus was heard approaching and excitement reigned as the sleigh bells drew nearer. Before the gifts were distributed all the children entertained in some way, and as a reward Santa gave each child a shiny new quarter. When each person came to the platform to receive his or her gift from the school, Miss Cole told the number of years of faithful service each had given. The party broke up with the singing of the Christmas song and another Christmas party had passed into history.

THE SENIOR PLAY

The Seniors chose for their play this year "The Swan," that delightful comedy by Fernec Molnar. The presentation had to be postponed from the original date to the middle of January because of the illness of one of the leading characters. The play lost nothing in charm because of the change in date as those who saw it will agree.

The leading rôles were taken by Marjory Riach, who made a most attractive Princess, Florence Farnsley as the Tutor, Mary Reed Simpson as the self-assured Prince and Molly Bennett as the artful Mother of the Princess. Marjorie Kaiser was most impressive as Old Father Hyacinth and Mary Elizabeth Haradon and Susan Jane Wegener afforded much amusement as the two young Princes. The play was given under the direction of Mrs. Larkin with Gertrude Lammers and Alice Foye as managers.

THE DRAMATIC WORKSHOP

The Dramatic Workshop was started this fall as an "activity" for those girls interested in dramatics. The aim of the Workshop is to have every member direct and produce a play during the year. Classes are held for the study of pantomime, voice placement, the problems of stage setting and costume designing which are so necessary for the production of a good play. We have tried to present a play of every type—historical, costume, phantasy, modern and comedy. The following one-act plays have been presented: The "Minuet" by Lois N. Parker, "Counsel Retained" by Constance D'Arcy Mackay, "The Ghost Story" by Booth Tarkington, "So This Is Tuesday" written and directed by Margaret Murphy of the graduating class, "Fan and Two Candlesticks," "The Valiant," "Holly Tree Inn" by Mrs. O. Beringer, adapted from the Christmas story of Charles Dickens "The Holly Tree," and "Will O' The Wisp" by E. Halleman.

The officers for the year were:

President.....	Mollie Bennett
Manager of Stagecraft.....	Gertrude R. Lammers
Secretary.....	Mary Reed Simpson
Treasurer.....	Marjory Riach

On Sunday evening, February the third, we very much enjoyed a song recital by Helen Blodgett Erwin, of the Class of '15. The program consisted of:

Amarilli	Caccini (1546)
Se Tu M'Ami.....	Pergolesi
Serenata	Tosti
Die Lotos Blume.....	Schumann
Du Bist Die Ruh.....	Schubert
Ich Liebe Dich	Grieg
Il Neige.....	Bemberg
L'Adieu du Matin.....	Pessard
Dites Moi Belle Enchantress.....	Nevin
Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal.....	Quilter
Coolan Dhu	Leoni
The Virgin's Lullaby	Reger

The programs given by Alumnae during the past month made a distinct contribution to the morale of the school. We wish to thank them for having shared so graciously with us their talent.

J. S.

THE YELLOW AND WHITE VALENTINE PARTY

Of course, everybody knew that the Yellow and White Valentine Party would not only come up to, but outdo the others recorded in M. V. S.'s history. No one, however, has ever been allowed into the secret of just how this is done—no one except the Yellows and Whites. But the fact remains, it is done and '29 saw no exception.

At last, evening came, all could see the result of these mysterious preparations. After being greeted by Miss Cole, Miss Burgess and the presidents of the Yellows and Whites, the guests entered a transformed gym. A dazzling display of bright red cupids disported themselves not on gym walls but on a white background which made one think of clouds.

In an atmosphere like this every one was gay. Gorgeous colors flitted and whirled to and fro the entire evening weaving kaleidoscopic designs. Costumes of every country and kind graced the occasion; peasant maids, a Spanish beauty and even Marie Antoinette, made merry on common ground. Faculty and students alike appeared in such unwonted guise. All joined in a grand march and again in competition for the best dancing.

Throughout the evening increasing evidence of painstaking cleverness kept reminding the guests of Yellow and White forethought. Four couples in red jackets, the boys in white ducks, the girls in white skirts marched out singing. This, however, was not their only accomplishment, for they seemed very proficient in discovering just who was ready for a cooling glass of punch among those who did not "help themselves."

The colorful assembly stopped dancing once more, later on to enjoy still further entertainment. Six old-fashioned girls, wearing long fluffy dress of pastel shades and holding a rose chain in large loops captivated the guests with a graceful dance.

To make a perfect ending and to the delight of all, ice cream and heart-shaped cakes were served.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

May 24-29, 1929

On Friday morning, May 24th, "School Day" exercises were held in the Gymnasium. English compositions and poetry constituted the major portion of the program. These were followed by the reading of school records, the granting of certificates to those who had completed satisfactorily the High School Course, and athletic awards. The Flag Honor for the year was given the Senior Class.

In the afternoon the work of students in the Art Department, Bible Classes, Survey of Civilization Classes, and Domestic Science Classes was exhibited in the Study Hall and in Class Rooms on the first floor.

Friday evening a Student Recital was given in Great Hall. The program was exceptionally well rendered.

Saturday, May 25th, was Alumnæ Day. The business meeting of the Alumnæ Association was held in Great Hall and presided over by the Vice President, Mrs. Elizabeth Swartzell Davis, in the absence of the President, Miss Elsie Foerderer. Immediately after the meeting the members of the Association gathered in the front hall where they were greeted by the student body. The girls came in single file from each wing of the building carrying hoops of daisies and singing The Alma Mater Glorious. As they met in the front hall, they proceeded two by two, through the door leading out to the quadrangle and, raising their hoops, formed an archway for the Alumnæ to pass through on their way to luncheon. At 4:30 in the afternoon the household repaired to a tea at the Elizabeth Somers home, better known as "1100 M Street." It was a rare treat to many of the "old" girls to see the old school once again.

The Baccalaureate Service was especially beautiful this year. The sermon, which was a most inspiring one, was delivered by Rev. Frederick B. Harris, of Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church. His text was Philippians 1st Chapter, 21st verse: "For me to live is Christ." After the service the parents of the Seniors remained for supper and the program of class songs in the Great Hall.

At five o'clock Monday afternoon, Mary Elizabeth Haradon, a member of the graduating class and daughter of Sue Elmore Haradon, gave a very delightful organ recital in our own Chapel.

In the evening, the Junior Class presented Sir James M. Barrie's play "Peter Pan." It was beautifully done both in the acting and in the stage settings. Mrs. Larkin, our instructor in dramatics, may well be proud of her achievement, and Miss Edwards, as usual, deserves the hearty congratulations of all, for the scenery. The cast was as follows:

Abdication of Senior Seats

This year the Senior Class presented to the school a beautiful silver water pitcher.

In the evening the Treble Clef Club presented a delightful concert. Each number was rendered in a manner which must have been a joy to the one and only, Mrs. Payne.

On Wednesday, May 29th, the goal for which twenty-one attractive, serious-minded M. V. S. daughters had striven so long was reached. The exercises were preceded by the ceremony of hanging memorial wreaths on the Adelia Gates Hensley Gate, and the entrance of the Elizabeth Somers Chapel. The procession was headed by members of the Faculty and school granddaughters carrying wreaths of yellow and white daisies and blue corn flowers; then came Miss Cole and Miss Burgess with Mrs. Rosenberry and Rev. Charles Murray (President Hoover's pastor), followed by the Faculty and Senior Class in cap and gown. Seniors were escorted to their seats in the Chapel by Helen Rushton Peirce '24 and Elizabeth Roberts '28. Then came the school in classes, gowned in their special occasion dresses of various colors of the rainbow. The program of the service follows:

ADDRESS TO GRADUATING CLASS

Mrs. Marvin Bristol Rosenberry, Ph.D.

Goyescas GRANADOS

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS

Miss Cole

BENEDICTION

The Reverend A. T. Murray

Recessional, Tannhauser March WAGNER

It is with regret that we have not space enough to print the remarks of Mrs. Rosenberry. Her address was based on the subject of "The frontiers to be won today," chief among which is law enforcement. She emphasized that "the great problem today is to fit oneself into the fabric of the life we are living—to bring human life more in harmony."

Adieux said and M. V. S. was left behind by another group of M. V. S. daughters.

FACULTY PERSONALS

Miss Cole has spent a most delightful, restful summer in England. We understand she has purchased a car and is driving it through the Shires.

Miss Guard and Miss Walker have attended the meeting of the Progressive Education Association at State College, Pennsylvania. We await their reports on the proceedings with the keenest interest. After the meeting Miss Walker will spend a month or two with Helen Doughty and her most interesting family.

Miss Carpenter also attended the Progressive Education meeting, later going to Europe.

Miss Hill is spending her vacation in Steubenville, Ohio, where she motored from Washington in her new Packard. She reports that the car has given her family the greatest pleasure.

Miss Brouse and Miss Trippett are spending their vacation pastime in Bluemont, Virginia, and part in Washington, overseeing the building of the New Field House and Open Air Gym.

Mrs. Baylis has had a very pleasant vacation at Lake Placid.

Miss Barber has been spending the summer at Nahant, Massachusetts, with her mother. She has been getting a much needed rest.

Miss Chickering has been summering in New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Mrs. McAllister has divided her time between the homes of her daughter, Marguerite Taneyhill, and her niece and very charming family.

Miss Hopkins (the same old "Hoppy") has had a quiet summer, spending much time with her brother who has not been well for some months, but who is gradually improving, and at Frederick, Maryland.

NEW FACULTY 1928-29

Miss Corrine Leino, the New English teacher, came to us from Carleton College, and has proved a delightful addition to the faculty of M. V. S.

Miss Betsey Lane Quinlan, of Waynesville, N. C., is one of the youngest members of the faculty and is quite enthusiastic over her classes in expression.

Miss Mary Nourse is a very valuable addition to the school family. She teaches United States History and some of the classes in Survey of Civilization.

Mrs. Oliver Lloyd is a charming English woman and splendid instructor of mathematics. She came to us from Bradford Academy, Mass.

Miss Mary Pitman Brown has proved a most charming house mother and especially capable director of studies. She comes to us from the Baldwin School.

Miss Helen Elliott, of Boston, Mass., has filled the position of secretary to Associate Head Mistress most capably. She is a graduate of Simmons College.

Mrs. Eva O'H. Mason, of Wilson, N. C., came to us to fill the place made vacant by Miss Martin who is taking leave of absence to regain her health. While we missed her very much, we are most fortunate in the selection of Mrs. Mason.

Villa Welch Murray and her husband have gone to Florida to live.

1881

Anne Seymour Ames and Cornelia Irby Morgan spent the summer in Maine, this year.

Harriet Belle Walker spent weeks at State College, Pennsylvania, attending the meeting of the Progressive Association. The remainder of the summer will be spent in Lookout Mountain, Tennessee, with Helen Yeatman Doughty and her four perfectly adorable children.

1887

Grace Willis left Washington early in May for New York where she sailed for Europe, to be gone several months.

1892

Dr. and Mrs. H. N. Torrey (Nell Ford) and family traveled abroad last summer (1928), spending most of their time in Spain and Italy.

1894

Mrs. Edgcumb Pinchon (Elise Dufour) on a visit to the school early this year, was called upon, as girls were entering chapel for the usual Wednesday lecture, to take the place of the speaker, who failed to arrive. Undaunted, and with as much composure and graciousness as if she had had hours of preparation, she gave an interesting account of the life in Hollywood, its relation to the movies and people of the movies.

1895

Blanche Polkinhorn attended in February, last, the inauguration of her cousin, Dr. Edmund Davison Soper, as president of the Ohio Wesleyan University, at Delaware, Ohio. The ceremonies which lasted several days, were most dignified and impressive, ending with a reception and banquet at which the new Governor of Ohio, Myers K. Cooper, made an excellent address as did a number of educators from representative Universities in the country. Doctor Soper was called, some years ago to a chair, created for him, at the Northwestern University, in Evanston, Ill., but more recently has been a Vice-President of the Duke University, at Durham, N. C.

Marjorie Ray Potter is sending her daughter, Helen Ray to M. V. S. this fall.

Marguerite Macomber is a member of the executive force of Barnard College, Columbia College. She writes she has had many interesting experiences. For ten years she studied singing and took care of an invalid mother.

Anna Boyd could not attend the reunion—her twenty-fifth—because of the fact that May and June were rush months for interior decorators, and having country houses to settle the last of May she had to remain in New York.

1906

"Fritz" Gardner Leigh, with her husband and two dear little daughters, paid a flying visit to M. V. S. early in August. She looks very much the same as in the days at 1100 M.

1907

Alverta Ellis writes she is hoping to come east either late in the summer or early fall. She will be a most welcome visitor to M. V. S.

Agnes Ballock Dawson is now in Mexico City, Mexico, where her husband is serving as U. S. Consul General. Agnes writes:

"We have been here almost six months and find the climate, scenery, life, and people perfectly delightful. Already in this short time, I have experienced several earth quakes and a revolution, had a chat with Lindbergh, and a variety of other interesting experiences. Not the least of these was an M. V. S. reunion with Beleme Aspiroz—after nearly twenty-five years! Most of the girls who were in school between 1902 and 1905 will remember Beleme, whose father was then Mexican Ambassador in Washington. Beleme is looking remarkably well and remarkably young, and is married to a Mr. Fred Hortop, an English gentleman living here. She has a daughter of nineteen and a boy somewhat younger, both of whom are being educated in England." We are very glad to have this interesting bit of news from Agnes. She writes further that—"I have no other news of 'old girls'—and that characterization is ceasing to be facetious, worse luck. Josephine Foster Leich has just sent her oldest boy to Dartmouth and will send her daughter to college next fall. My own six-foot son is in school in the States and will enter Princeton in two years."

1908

The daughters of Phila Milbank McFie and Harriet McGill Flickinger are among the students enrolled for this October.

1909

Anne Dugan Field's daughter, Betty, will be one of the students of M. V. S. this fall.

Elsie Foerderer has been abroad since the first of the year chaperoning her cousin on her first trip to Europe.

1910

Mrs. Henry Munnickhuysen (Elizabeth Heim) was among the welcome callers at M. V. S. in June when she completed arrangements for the admission of her daughter, Betty Burke, to M. V. S. for 1929-30.

1911

Vivian Caunt Early writes from Pasadena where she is living now: "I have a very nice husband, and one little girl eight years, a candidate for M. V. S. when the time comes."

Evalyn Jackson Prophet writes that she has had a very busy winter, for in addition to home duties which include the care of her three boys, she is deeply interested in church work. She is President of the Ladies' Society, a mission study class, is soloist in the choir and teaches a Sunday School Class.

Vera Clemes Hurd paid a flying visit to the school this year. She was one of the charter members of the Junior League in Wichita, and was President last year. She is planning to send her oldest daughter to M. V. S. in two or three years. Having four children she writes, "I fear I can report on nothing but domesticity and Junior League."

Betty Brown Backus had hoped to come to the Reunion this year but was unable to on account of the illness of her mother.

Emily Winship Scott moved into her new home last year and is especially interested in her flower garden as this is its first season. She too had hoped to return for the Reunion.

1915

Ruth Wattis who now lives in Paris came home this spring for a visit. Ruth, Julia Mollenhauer McWethy and Ruth Robinson Sherin had a fine visit together in New York, when M. V. S. was one of the chief topics of conversation.

1918

Dorothy Lewis and Frances Gilman had a wonderful trip abroad. Frances has lived abroad so much, that she was a wonderful guide, and Dottie was an enthusiastic "first-tripper."

Helen Yeatman Doughty gives as her reason for non-attendance at Reunion her four adorable children, Frances Harriet, who is now a big girl, bright and keen; Cornelia Anne, adorable, and the twins, Charles Lawrence and Mary Louise, model babies. "Charles should have been named 'Jolly Boy' instead of 'Charlie Boy.' He is big, fat-rosy, a bundle of laughter. Mary Louise, should have been called 'Cricket.' She is the sunniest-natured little thing I've ever known."

1919

In the Y. W. C. A. Fund Drive of Pittsburgh last year, Margaret Woolfolk was Chairman of the Motor Corps. Remembering the efficiency with which Margaret carried out everything connected with her work here, we are sure the Chairman of this division was well chosen.

1920

Mr. and Mrs. G. Donald Smith (Josephine McCann, '20) spent several delightful weeks in Florida last winter, where Mr. Smith and a friend enjoyed the deep-sea fishing and caught 1,000 pounds of fish, thirty-five miles from shore.

1921

It was a pleasure to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Burr Gregg (Dorothy Kilbourne) to dinner just before the Easter vacation.

After a most enjoyable summer in Europe, Mildred Williamson has returned to Radcliffe to continue her studies in Fine Arts.

1922

One Sunday, the latter part of June, Mrs. Simpson Yeomans (Gladys LaRue) visited the school. She told us that she has a darling little girl, Joyce, who has light hair and blue eyes, and is just two and a half years old.

1924

Virginia Davison and Elvira Young stopped, in February, in Los Angeles for a two days' visit with Margaret Martin, on their way to the Orient. Dinners, the Horse Show, and a dance at the Biltmore and the Chamber of Commerce made one merry "round" for the two days at the hospitable new Martin home.

1925

Ruth Martin travelled abroad several months with her family the past winter and spring and returned late in April.

1926

Caroline Sweeney spent a week end in April at M. V. S. She was a welcome visitor.

1927

It was a matter of regret that Dorothy Thomson's call in April was so short, and that so many of her friends were not here to see her.

1928

Archibald, Katherine

Katherine spent most of her winter at home. During last summer she visited M. V. S. friends in Kentucky and Tennessee. Then this spring she returned for Commencement.

Clark, Jessie

Jessie was one of the numerous girls who went back for their first Commencement. Edna Sherman, Elizabeth Sherwood, Dorothea Sigel, Jane Quilhot, and Virginia Harris were a few of the others who enjoyed the hospitality of M. V. S. that week.

Decker, Faith

Having returned from Commencement, Faith is off again. This time she is bound for Wisconsin where she will visit Shirley Hobbins.

Evatt, Catherine

Catherine spent three months this winter traveling through Morocco and Europe with her sister. This summer she has been studying in preparation for a position she is to take this winter.

Fitton, Martha

Between the two Washington trips that Martha made this year, she took part in the Junior League Follies in Indianapolis. She is now engaged and will be married in the spring, she thinks.

Goetz, Esther

Esther and Marie Horst are in Paris this summer studying art.

Hearne, Anne

It was a great pleasure for all those who knew Anne to see her back at school this spring to receive her diploma that she was unable to get last year, due to sickness. All winter she has been taking a business course.

Hobbins, Shirley

Shirley is studying at the University of Wisconsin, and has pledged the Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority this spring. She is one of the girls in Madison who is trying to help organize a Junior League for that city.

Johnston, Elizabeth

Like many of the others, Elizabeth has spent part of her winter visiting her friends, but now she, too, is studying stenography and typewriting. It looks as if the Class of 1928 was to be a big boost to the business world.

Miller, Eleanor

Eleanor has been studying costume-designing and illustrating at the Fashion Academy in New York this winter along with French Literature and conversation. She is one of the few who is engaged but she will have to keep her eye on "Fitty" to retain her title as class bride.

Thom, Rowena

A debut is quite sufficient to take up a whole winter, is Rowena's opinion. As she says, her brain has grown, not in a purposeful way, but all of us who have made debuts know that of all girls Rowena is one who will always be full of "purposeful ways."

VISITING ALUMNÆ—1923-1929

Frances Allen Smith, 1904; Virginia Roediger, 1925;
Dorothea Stephens Winan, 1914; Helen Foss Kilvert, 1911;
Helen Howe Greenhill, 1916; Lelia Hodson Hynson, 1918;
Virginia Kaufman Gunst, Gladys La Rue Yoemans, 1922; Ancinette Gardner Leigh (Fritz), 1906.

IN MEMORIAM

Mrs. Clara Eddy, Died May 16, 1929

Real sorrow came to the M. V. S. friends of Mrs. Clara H. Eddy when word was received here of her death May 16, 1929, at her home in Evanston, Illinois.

Mt. Vernon Seminary was blest, when after the death of Mr. Eddy in 1894, Mrs. Eddy came to the school to make her home with Mrs. Somers, bringing with her, her four young children. Those who were of the same household know so well of her beneficent influence, of her beautiful life among us for so many years. She was a gentle, patient, wise mother and a loyal friend.

To die is not in vain if one can leave such blessed memories as our dear Mrs. Eddy has left us. Our loving sympathy goes out to all who knew and loved her.

IN MEMORIAM

Ella Berry Dare Belt, Died December 11, 1928

It is with the deepest regret that the Class of 1894 records the sudden death of Ella Dare Belt. She was always a loved and valued member of our class—a person with a sweet and gentle nature, and her death came as a shock and sorrow to us all. To her family we extend our deepest sympathy.

GRACE WRIGHT CAPEN
MABEL WALKER CARTER

IN MEMORIAM

Florence Nokes Murphy Died May —, 1929

Left a widow at the age of thirty, Florence Nokes Murphy bravely "carried on" alone.

She raised her family and maintained a fine and dignified womanhood to the end.

It was her great pleasure to celebrate the fiftieth reunion of her class at Mount Vernon Seminary, May 26, 1928, on which occasion great honor and loving attention was shown her.

In her passing the Alumnæ Association has lost not only one of its oldest members but one who during fifty-one years has kept in constant and loyal touch with her dearly loved Alma Mater.

May the sweet voice of her youth be lifted up in heavenly pæans!

May the daisy wreath she wore last May blossom forth into a radiant crown of noble deeds!

Thus may she stand before the throne of God.

Her affectionate classmate,

LAURA NASH GRIGGS

IN MEMORIAM

Helen Marsh MacClintock, Died March 30, 1928

It was with a great deal of sadness we learned of the passing of Helen Marsh MacClintock, Class of 1906. Helen was much loved by those of us who were in school with her, and we grieve with her husband and children, for their loss is also ours.

IN MEMORIAM

Alice Wilson Snell, Died December 4, 1928

The friends and classmates of Alice Wilson Snell, Class of 1901 will learn with sadness of her death which occurred December 4, 1928.

The sympathy of all is extended to her family.

IN MEMORIAM

Helen Phillips Pollock, Died December 19, 1928

All who knew Helen Phillips Pollock, of the Class of 1921, will receive with much sorrow the news of her death on December 19, 1928. Helen was a girl whom everyone loved. She had a sweet, gentle nature, was gracious at all times and in every respect was a true M. V. S. daughter. Surely, the world is that much better because she lived in it even for so short a time.

Our sincere sympathy is extended to her bereaved family.

A RETROSPECT, 1905-1930

I approach this theme which I had anticipated with no little pleasure with the drooping wings natural to a bird in captivity. I entered upon the twenty-fifth year of M. V. S. with such enthusiasm and here I am banished from the loved scene of my labors—and my twenty-fifth year, chiefly one of rest from labor! However, returning strength brings returning enthusiasm and another year I trust will find me at my post making up for lost time. How different the world of 1930 from that of 1905—and M. V. S. has adapted itself to the changing time and in meeting the needs of a rapidly developing young American womanhood, presents a very different aspect from the school of a quarter of a century ago. I sometimes gasp when I am confronted by a row of short-skirted young girls in the front seats of the assembly, totally unconscious of the knees that mayhap are conspicuous and I remember Mrs. Somers remarking that a member of the faculty who crosses her knees may consider her resignation accepted! But then, quickly I recall that, in her seventy-second year, she bade me take for the Senior Essays the theme of Woman Suffrage, for she said, "While I have not wanted the suffrage myself, the world is changing and mayhap needs its women to share the political burden and I wish my girls prepared. It is coming whether I wish it or not." And then I know that she would have read the signs of the times and directed her school in progressive paths, undaunted by the cyclonic changes of a post war era.

It is a triptych that presents itself to me in a backward glance—M. V. S. before, during and after the war. How idyllic the first ten years—how deliberately life lived itself in the capital city. Slowly from the disgraceful old Pennsylvania station I rolled up Eleventh Street in a herdic cab—no automobiles then—at ten o'clock in the evening to be met by Miss Harbaugh, gracious and helpful in her ministrations to the new comer. Breakfast in the old "porch dining room" where I met the battery of faculty eyes, much less happily than I might have, had not a Washington mosquito in an unscreened house, closed one of my own eyes! "No screens" was one of my first observations and I was told there were no flies in Washington! Even that has changed. How we struggle against them now in a house where every tiny aperture has its screen and a heavy penalty rests on the unhappy head of her who leaves a screen raised! Then the meeting with Mrs. Somers in the Music Room where she sat enthroned in gracious dignity and looking at me, critically, said—"I have one fault to find with you—you are too young." I recall my reply—"Time will take care of that"—and it has! I had met Mrs. Hensley—only her beautiful self could have lured me from my home to undertake boarding school life which did not in itself appeal to me. But who, after an hour with Mrs. Hensley, could refuse the opportunity to work with her!

What a crowd of memories present themselves in those pre-war years! Dress inspection (there were no uniforms then) with its discussion, tears and heartaches, the long-trained evening dresses, the spindling waists, the ruffles, the frills; the graduating dresses with the eternal question, "Isn't it simple?" The Order of the Lily, impressive and lovely in its ideal, even to those of us who questioned its psychology. Who can forget the initiation evenings in the Music Room as Mrs. Somers set forth its ideals in her lovely unforgettable voice. Who, who has ever heard it, can not hear her say "My daughter." Other Sunday evenings when Edward Everett Hale came to found the Lend-A-Hand Society (still doing its work in M. V. S.) or to bring a spiritual message, or dear Doctor Ames, or Mrs. Somers' lifelong friend Mr. John Foster of international fame and father of our Mrs. Lansing! But Sunday evenings the girls loved best of all to have Mrs. Somers or Mrs. Hensley talk to them informally. Even in those early days Mrs. Somers was with us little, but we always knew she was in the house and were ever hoping she'd appear as she always did on special occasions. How amusingly she reproved the girls for their shortcomings. When the dress question was reaching the climax which ended in the adoption of the uniform, Mrs. Somers took a hand in the suppression of the elaborate evening dresses with trains. "My children," she said in her humorous way, "you dress like your grown-up sisters. When I present you to my friends, they will think they are meeting a grown-up but when they converse with you"—the sentence did not need to be finished! "Abend Brodt" at 9.20—when figures were rounded and calories uncounted! Senior Essay week when a long-suffering committee of the faculty heard on consecutive afternoons all the essays (one year there were thirty-six) and then after grave consultation selected a dozen of the best to be read Senior Day! Those sweltering afternoons in the Music Room—and they always elected to put in the winter's coal those days! The barge party up the canal for the Great Falls picnic—now we cover the eighteen miles in a twinkling in automobiles. How we meandered along, jumping off the boat when we wished and walking along the tow path as far as we cared to behind the mules! Who ever drank such coffee as Alfred made on the rocks? Oh, the beauty of that ride on the canal—no hurry—time to watch the songbirds flash their brilliant plumage in the sunshine as they darted through the flowering dogwood and Judas trees. An unknown bird note—"Miss Eddy—Miss Eddy, what bird is that?" Who ever will forget Miss Eddy's earnest talks on hygiene in the little chapel especially the one she closed with the greatest earnestness and the admonition—"Be women; be mothers!" or the entry into the Chapel of Miss Guard—"the lady who led the singing in the back of the chapel"—the entry of Miss Guard and her green stockings on St. Patrick's Day to Mr. Murray's accompaniment on the organ of "The Wearing of the Green." Sight-seeing then as now a never failing Saturday diversion. But—do you recall the long line of open carriages drawn by two horses, sometimes fifteen, sometimes twenty in number—Miss Kurtz frantically counting the last girl as she left 1100 M—the first carriage by that time turning Thomas Circle—and all along the way, curious citizens amusedly watching them. And then Commencement morning when in a similar fashion we repaired to the Ball Room of the New Willard to receive our diplomas!

Of the faculty who welcomed me to M. V. S. only a few remain: Misses Brouse, Edwards, Guard, Hill, Mrs. Payne and Miss Walker. But how vividly I recall the others, Miss Harbaugh, Miss Ashley, Miss Ames, Miss Keller, Miss Eddy, Miss Dunster, Miss Kurtz, Miss Shepherd, Miss Taylor, Dr. Smith, Mr. Kaspar, Mr. Murray! Each name brings its memories to each of us; each one left an impress on M. V. S. that is a part of its being and will ever be! Soon after came Miss Hopkins, Mme. Baker, Mlle. Wilkie, Miss Hasselman, Miss Janney, Mrs. Mower, Mrs. Dill, Miss Hempstead, Mrs. Ryan, Miss Trippett, Mme. Peltier, Miss Youmans, Eleanor Murray! Miss Minnie Brouse (now Mrs. Kaspar), Miss Cook, Mrs. True, Mrs. McAllister, to mention some of the pre-war forces who for many years moulded the M. V. S. destiny.

But suddenly we were galvanized into a new activity. Leisure and its attending graces died when the holocaust of war fell upon us. Days of deepening feeling, days of anxiety and horror, days of sacrifice! How quickly young womanhood saw its opportunity and met it! Simplicity reigned. We gave up every available luxury and our contributions to the war in money alone amounted to thousands. We issued no engraved invitations for receptions nor for Commencement, we printed no programs—the money went to the Red Cross. Girls sacrificed with unsparing hand as only girls can. We organized First Aid Classes and made bandages. But let us not keep the curtain drawn on the picture so familiar and so painful. Before that Serbian murderer had overthrown the strongholds of the world, we had purchased the site for the new school and plans were under way. It is significant that the School's renaissance should have been in a period of suffering and sacrifice. It was indeed timely—and I repeat—significant. A new school, with courage and vision, was the only answer to the hour. "The old order changeth" and we must face the new. The "new" school thus became pregnant with meaning.

Between these sentences I have watched the sun go down in a blaze of beauty behind Ischia—and enfold the whole Bay of Naples and Vesuvius in its aftermath of glory. In a little, night will divide to-day from to-morrow but to-morrow will emerge trailing the clouds of yesterday's glory! And even so, I pray, have we—"the new school"—come into the new world to meet its needs and serve its ends, but clothed in the glory of yesterday. We believe it is no small part of our task to salvage from the wreckage of yesterday, the golden beauty that it created and so it is, fearless, through these post-war years of fine womanly development, we have stood, at times rather lonely perhaps, for the womanly graces, the gentleness, the full beauty of womanhood which should render its usefulness greater. In the convulsion of war we were born—to the construction of peace we are dedicated; in the grave of lost desires we bury the pettiness, the idleness, the superficiality, the purposelessness of much of yesterday's womanhood—to the development of a purposeful, earnest, sincere, industrious and noble womanhood we devote our energies; from the crudeness of voice, of manner, of thought, of feeling—the natural fruit of humanity's abandoning itself to the savagery of war, we seek freedom; to the creation of beauty in tone, in speech, in manner, in thought, in feeling we devote ourselves; from the mere imitation of the masculine, we flee, to the sharing with man his responsibility, his civic duty, his international privilege, we turn; we ask equal privilege—we demand equal responsibility; the "new school" travails to produce conditions that shall, with the greatest possible elasticity, aid its daughters to develop every possible latent power, to make way for individuality, to give the young girl every inspiration to develop all that makes for distinctive womanhood.

During that war period, the mantle of leadership glided gently from Mrs. Somers' aged shoulders and fell silently and naturally on those of Mrs. Hensley. Since 1884, she had been in preparation for this hour and when it came, how masterfully she met it. A singular selflessness, a self-effacement almost beyond the power of comprehension had made the years of transition possible. For many years, ill health had made Mrs. Somers' coming and going uncertain. For long periods of time all the responsibility was Mrs. Hensley's—then Mrs. Somers would take the reins and silently and gracefully Mrs. Hensley stepped aside—not always an easy role—perhaps as suddenly to re-assume the leadership. How quickly and deftly, how simply, how almost majestically in her dignity, when the leadership became definitely hers, she made ready for the rebirth—only those who were at her side know;—how successfully the present testifies. "Another morn risen on mid-noon"—the poet sang and fully described the change of leadership so often disastrous to a school.

The signing of the peace treaty found us in our new home and a new era began. The first five years were exhaustingly busy years for those who bore the brunt of the burden. Interest to meet, debts to pay, as well as the multitudinous educational demands. But these were met as necessary and soon a sound financial policy augured well for the retiring of the debt and meeting the growing demands of the meteoric development of our day.

A beautiful chapel dedicated to the beloved memory of Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley—the gift of their loyal daughters—is a silent narrator of the shadowed days through which we passed in 1923 and 1924, and an eloquent witness of their abiding presence in our midst.

Then came the Golden Jubilee—no one will ever know how the new Head Mistress dreaded it! Would the old girls—could the old girls come back knowing that both Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley had answered the final summons? But the hand was to the plough—the reunion had been planned and we must not turn back. No more eloquent tribute could have been paid to the memory of the Founders, than that rendered by those old girls who came back. Five hundred strong! Old memories were revived—new ties were made—new loyalties born and a sense of support and strength given me in those few days that have lightened every hour since.

Of the past seven years, little need be said. There has been material progress, of course. A dignified Colonial Chapel that is a daily source of inspiration to us; a modest greenhouse; workshops for the drama and for creative writing as well as a fine sewing room built in the attic; the swimming pool has been tiled. The Field House and Open Air Gymnasium, described elsewhere, fill a great need in our life for a social outlet. But perhaps, best of all, is the addition of ten acres to our already proud possession of twenty—making an enviable campus indeed.

The educational program—which we are developing, must command the interest of all—a program to give such elasticity of elective as to meet the individual need and add the dynamic power of interest arising from satisfied desires to the accomplishment of the task. A broad outlook is given to girls in the Collegiate Division through the two courses in World Literature and Survey of Civilization—very closely correlated, to be supplemented another year by a survey course in Science similar to that devised by Chicago University and known as “The Nature of the World and of Man.” The freedom in election of a major interest around which the remaining subjects are grouped secures a concentration of effort that must result in finer achievement. A third factor in the new program brings into the curriculum with time apportioned and credit given to all, the so-called extra-curricular activities. As yet we have but touched upon the field of leisure time activity, but we are hoping to stimulate a keen interest in a hobby that properly nurtured must redeem a goodly fraction of later life from either waste or boredom. Economic success is giving a large number of our people a leisure heretofore unknown, and thus creating a factor that can wreck our country if not properly used. And it will not be properly used unless it becomes a part of our education to train students to appreciate its value, and its possibilities and lead them into fields of hobbies worthy of their devotion.

In our college work we are employing college methods exclusively, reducing to a minimum the formal recitation, and teaching methods of research and independent study. It is our aim also to give these older girls absolute intra-mural freedom, making them mentors of their own time and habits of study, giving them the freedom of the house and campus, subject to their own discipline. But we believe firmly, in the necessity and desirability of extra-mural care. The same careful chaperonage and observance of good form characterizes our social life as of old. We believe this to be the real function of the Junior College—preparing students in college methods of study and throwing upon them responsibility for the use of their time, demanding higher and ever higher standards of scholarship for them and supplying them with a comradeship with the faculty made possible by the tutorial method and by the continuance of the close and cordial relationship brought about by sharing their pleasures with them, and in the chaperonage, raising the quality and degree of enjoyment. We believe time will justify our belief. At the expiration of the Junior College course, a student will be mature enough for the social freedom which has brought about so many disastrous results in the first two years of college life, when students have been wrecked by the sudden plunge into academic and social freedom.

We have also introduced this year vocational guidance for the collegiate girls, and hope to provide greater help from year to year. The average girl of today is anxious to develop herself along some useful line, but limited understanding of the fields open to them renders them hesitant and often permanently lost. To be prepared to meet the possible economic necessity that may confront any girl most unexpectedly is in itself a gratifying result, but far more important is finding the contact with society that enables a student to develop a self-sustaining and self-respecting life. While there may never be a necessity for economic independence, every life is confronted by the necessity of developing its latent power to the highest degree possible that its contribution to society may be commensurate with its gifts.

We are growing—do you feel it? We need so much a new studio building and a new library. In these days of wonderful gifts to boys' and girls' schools everywhere, is there no one of our alumnae grateful for what the past has given to her as to thousands of others and eager to make it possible for us to develop along the lines indicated, is there no one to give us a new studio building—a new library? The only other way to accomplish it is by enlarging the student body today—a suggestion that has met with widespread and vigorous protest. Which shall it be?

What a crowning of twenty-five years of joyous work at M. V. S. that would be if I might see these two buildings erected!

JEAN DEAN COLE

Three months of rest in the beauty of Sorrento and the Italian Riviera have accomplished for Miss Cole more than one could have dreamed. Friends say she is the picture of health and in very truth the above article will bespeak recovery from any brain-fag. September will find Miss Cole again at her desk, her tired nerves restored and, if not linguistically, otherwise in command of Italian whose dulcet charm has been her joy and practically her sole companion.

THE JUNIOR COLLEGE

The Junior College holds a unique place in the world of today. Unless it voluntarily limits itself to being merely a preparatory school for the senior college it can enjoy an enviable freedom in choice of candidates, variety and richness of curriculum, and flexibility of administration.

The present Collegiate Division at Mount Vernon Seminary has the advantage of having evolved naturally from an advanced course antedating the Junior College idea by a number of years, fundamentally sound and progressive, and maintaining an excellent standard of work, so recognized by a number of universities in the past.

Its present curriculum, with its required courses in Survey of Civilization and World Literature extending the horizon of the student's knowledge and giving her the benefit of racial experience and culture, and its elective courses in the natural and social sciences, languages, and arts, stimulates and develops the intellectual lives of the girls. We must soon launch an orientation course in the natural sciences, probably similar to that developed by professors of Chicago University as "The Nature of the World and of Man."

At Mount Vernon Seminary the project as "an activity chosen and administered by the student as an expression of his own individual needs and desires" is being used more and more to take the place of the factual test as a mid-year and final check-up. In the orientation course—a Survey of Civilization—in World Literature, in Psychology, in the Sciences, in Economics, the project has been developed as a reinterpretation or reevaluation of the work done in the weeks preceding, viewing it from an entirely different angle and adding to it the result of some additional research and much reflection. A charming map of the travels of Odysseus, beautifully drawn by Katherine Gibson, a member of the Junior Class, is being used by Mrs. Beatrice Ensor, Editor of the New Era in England, in the project number of that magazine, to be published in September.

THE SECONDARY SCHOOL

The Secondary School at Mount Vernon Seminary, known as "The Forms" seems to me to be an exceedingly interesting unit educationally and one which offers many opportunities for worthwhile accomplishment.

The outstanding problem of the Secondary School now is the development of a successful college-preparatory school (preparatory for the College Board examinations), and at the same time, of a general course—interesting, cultural, with genuine intellectual and academic value. At first glance this may seem to offer no real difficulties, but the methods of instruction, as well as the content of the curriculum in these two courses should be entirely different. Therefore these groups should be separated in classes in order to insure the maximum amount of efficiency and freedom of teaching.

This has been and is being done, but in order to do so without too great waste, we must be sure that we have a sufficiently large number in each group to make our classes possible and worthwhile. Therefore I am interested when I see the enrollment progressing with a very slowly but steadily increasing number of college preparatory students.

In the college preparatory department we have a two-fold responsibility. We must not only prepare students to pass the College Board examinations, but we must also accomplish a much harder task, namely, send them out equipped to maintain successfully after gaining entrance. Success with the first does not necessarily insure success in the second. Anyone who is concerned at all with the matter of college preparation and entrance at the present time knows that the numbers seeking admission are far greater than those which the colleges can possibly accept. Therefore competition is very keen not only for entrance but also to keep one's place when there. The colleges are in a position to reject unsatisfactory students because there is so much good material in reserve.

The essentials which a good school should give its pupils in order to equip them for this keen competition in college or for leadership in their communities are the ability to concentrate, to attack problems scientifically, and to make sound decisions; self-reliance, a sense of responsibility, and independence of thought and action. One way in which we have tried to develop several of these traits is by allowing the students themselves to assume the responsibility for the maintenance of studious habits in study hall.

I feel that Mount Vernon Seminary has a particular place in the field of education which she can fill most satisfactorily and better than many other schools, and that is with the group of students taking the general course. There are plenty of excellent college preparatory schools in the country, but there are not many schools where a general education exists which is really cultural and which is based on sound academic traditions. We are trying continually to maintain and develop such a course at Mount Vernon in The Forms. Since we have a small group of students and a sufficiently large faculty, we are in a very favorable position. We can adopt any of the new measures in education which have proven successful, and at the same time keep alive the traditions and high ideals for which the school has been noted.

HELEN C. HASTINGS

THE FIELD HOUSE

Out of the longings of hundreds of girls in the past twelve years, out of the devoted untiring efforts of the few, has sprung the Field House, a project of great strength and unlimited possibilities for service and self-expression.

On a little hill above the old Shelter, with beautiful trees and green lawns on all sides, stands the Field House, erected by the Department of Home Economics as an expression of devotion to that ideal of service for which Mount Vernon Seminary stands. Just behind the Field House, where once was a wire fence, there is now a nine-acre open stretch of wooded land, recently acquired by the school, and which adds greatly to the charm of the school campus.

The Field House is an outstretching, one-story building measuring some 117 feet across. In the center is a lofty hall 80 feet wide, with great beams supporting a peaked roof, where little dormer windows let in the light. At the rear of the hall, just opposite the central entrance, on a wide flagged space, is a fireplace so large that five-foot logs may be burned, sending forth cheer and welcome and an unspoken suggestion of good fellowship and rest. Here groups gather for spontaneous, friendly talks. The Field House has two wings, like two friendly arms. One is the shop; the other is the model kitchen and pantry for the tea room. All of the old girls who worked under difficulties to make the tea room at the Shelter attractive and profitable would rejoice in our new equipment, for here are the material things that make efficient work possible. The kitchen is flooded with sunshine. It has a peaked roof painted blue; its floor is tiled in pompeiiian red. There are all sorts of special nooks for special equipment. The electric refrigerator stands in its own recess. The contrary little wood stove of the Shelter is replaced by a most modern gas range. Even the ice-cream tub of leaky memory has a specially drained cubby in which to stand. The same little blue-legged tables earned by the girls of the last year in 1100 M Street are in use among the new tables. They await your visit. The school has provided for the tea room delightful dishes which show very brightly through the glass doors of the dish closets just behind the service counter.

From the tea room one looks toward the Shop. The Shop, which is finished in light blue and brown, is a most bewitching spot. It has broad counters and high shelves and wooden pegs for the display of all sorts of interesting articles. All the gifts sent by old girls for sale in the Shop have been exhibited and many of them sold at once. Every one of them helped to build up the fine spirit which pervades the Shop. Opening from the Shop is the Exchange, with its till and adding machine, and its high stools under the windows, for business. The lights in the Field House are in attractive black iron lanterns, and add much to the Shop.

The Field House project is just feeling its way inch by inch into that great field of service which is its future right. Here we plan to have a splendid lending library. Here we expect to provide current magazines for the household.

As it now stands the Field House is most attractive and useful. The Field House as we know it can become depends upon the vision and devotion of every member of the M. V. S. family—the old girls as well as those who are new. Its strength will rest in the unfailing cooperation of each department of the school activity, for it exists not as a separate enterprise but as an inseparable part of the living, working whole.

Last spring the Tea House Fund paid over to Mount Vernon Seminary the approximate sum of $15,000, representing the amount to the credit of the Tea House Fund from its earnings of the past twelve years. Later the Field House assumed Mount Vernon Seminary notes for the amount of the remaining cost of the building, approximating $25,000, making a total of $40,000 as the building's cost. This is to be paid off by the earnings of the project in the process of time.

We can conceive of no project which could provide for students a more practical basis for the experience needed in the broader life which awaits each one in the years which are before her.

ALICE M. TRIPPETT

THE OUTDOOR GYMNASIUM

We prophesied great things of the Outdoor Gymnasium, and feel that they have been realized. In the fall one could hear the thuds of the diligent seekers of form in tennis as they practised drives against the wall which was marked as a backboard. On rainy afternoons a hum which might have been mistaken for the noise of airplanes passing overhead was in reality the roll of many skates.

On frosty winter mornings, warmly clad in athletic garb the girls responded to the crisp commands of Danish gymnastics, and in the afternoons forty-eight girls had the opportunity of playing basketball on the two courts which the gymnasium accommodates. For the first time we were able to act as hostesses to Miss Madeira's basketball team when the annual game was played, and our guests proved enthusiastic.

When the spring showers made the tennis courts too wet to use, then the gymnasium court was pressed into use and the devotees of the game again utilized the backboard for practicing strokes.

Already the Outdoor Gymnasium has justified its existence, but there are still untapped many resources which we are sure will yield a rich variety of opportunities for using this addition to our buildings in the years to come.

BEATRICE J. PEARSON

A RETROSPECT—50 YEARS

Fifty years! Half a century since the class of '80 received their diplomas. Half a century must indeed seem a weary time to the class of 1930. Fifty years sounds less formidable, no doubt, to the class of '80—it seemed long looking forward, but fifty years is not so appalling looking backward. They are short, short years, over a sunlit trail. There cannot be sunlight without shadows; the brighter the sun, the deeper the shadows. Disappointment, trials, sorrows, lose themselves in the gloom of the grateful shade, and looking back we see only the glow of the sunlit trail.

This is a lovely place. We are all proud of our school—its achievements, its completeness. I think none glory in its beauty more than the old girls who went to the little school at 204 F Street, yet I think none of us would willingly exchange those cozy, intimate years in the little school for the splendor of the new, the growth of which is proof of its worth.

Memories crowd thick and fast, fairly tumbling over one another. Vividly I see myself—a slender girl (I wish to emphasize the slender), entering the front door of 204, passing through the school room to the conservatory, where around plants and blossoms we hung our wraps. Often, at this hour, Mr. Somers would be found carefully tending his growing, glowing things, acknowledging our presence in his silent, gracious manner.

Wraps disposed of, we took our places in the school room for devotions. There were about 30 or 35 pupils—perhaps a dozen of them were boarders—coming chiefly from where the West begins. There were two rooms of double desks with an aisle between, and three more desks by the front windows. I was fortunate enough to have one of these front window desks during the years I went to M. V. S.

We were always happy when Mrs. Somers led us in our morning devotions. At such times she spoke to the Father with reverent intimacy of her school and her girls. Sometimes the younger teachers, Miss Florence Eddy or Miss Goodwin, would lead us. It was Miss Eddy who unconsciously afforded us restrained amusement when she took for the daily chapter the 12th of Ecclesiastes, the 12th verse of which reads: "Of making many books there is no end, and much study is a weariness of the flesh."

Mrs. Somers met our Moral Science class in her chamber. We gathered about her chair near the bay window; several of us sat on a couch placed at the foot of the bed. It was all very cozy and informal. Here in her intimate way she taught us lessons of life not contained between the covers of any books. I have enlargement of the heart whenever I think of those hours. One day I brought to class a miniature of a relative—a choice thing that I wished my friends to see. I covertly passed it to my neighbor, Villa Welch Murray, who in turn passed it to another and so on, till soon, by request, it was in Mrs. Somers' hands. She retained it until after class, admired it and returned it with no word of blame.

It was Addie Smith Holden who sat at my desk with me one day during a study period. She asked me to write her a verse. I complied. Addie wrote a rhyme back—till we had covered the fly leaves of Green's Short History of the English People. The verses are quite foolish. I have my Green's History and looked them over a few days ago. The book was inadvertently left on the front mantel of the school room. Mrs. Somers came in, stood a while by the fire and quietly perused these doggerels. I watched and wondered. Finally she seated herself beside me, saying no word of rebuke, but talked in her inimitable way, seriously and earnestly about writing to better purpose. She gave me a subject to write on—I felt it a command. She helped me with suggestions, showed me my crudities; and when I had done my best I was invited to read it at one of the Friday evenings so much enjoyed by the boarding pupils.

Green's History brings to mind our Labberton class. The course in Labberton's Outlined History of the World was for two years. There were three volumes: one of questions, one of amplified paragraphs relating to people and events, and one of maps. With these we were to read Green's Short History of the English People. It could easily have been shorter with no regret on our part. There would not be much space left on a five foot book shelf if these four volumes were placed there. After the recitation, what time was left was used in reading from Green. We sat around the long table in the dining room, which we approached through the conservatory. Miss Fish was the teacher at this time. She found that I was one of those who could race through the pages with a minimum of mistakes, and it fell to me to cover the required ground as fast and furiously as possible. Next to me sat one Hattie Belle, who wound me up from behind the chair. The faster I read, the faster she wound.

This Hattie Belle of course has no recollection of such a happening, nor do I think she recalls writing me a three-cornered note sealed with a bright decalcomania, which I was to read after my graduation. This little note I found in the pages of an old book the other day. In beautiful handwriting she prophesied for me, and of herself she said: "And I shall teach the young idea how to go a gunning."

For our teachers we had respect, admiration, love. There was Miss Easton in her corner room, with her good cheer and her quaint bits of philosophy. Many times I have recalled her oft repeated saying: "In all thy gettings, get common sense." To one who deplored the fact of her going to India, she said with joy: "It is what I have long desired and hoped for." The next year we missed Miss Easton, but Miss Scull, who succeeded her, had her own place. A woman with delicately chiselled features, soft white hair, trailing black silk garments, she was a picture to admire and remember. A beautiful woman with a beautiful soul.

It was in our Geometry class that in explaining a difficult problem, she would say, "Form in your mind's eyes, all you young Horatios." Her enthusiasm was contagious. With great earnestness she frequently repeated: "Oh, girls, how beautiful it is to know." Miss Austin, sweet, quaint, able, efficient, seemed to have stepped out of the pages of some fine old book—a Cranford or one of Jane Austin's. Dear dead days gone beyond recall. Gone, too, are many of the old familiar faces, but I cannot feel wholly alone when right in our midst are some of those who added joy and zest to life half a hundred years ago.

When I entered the school I found already at home a dark-eyed, dark-haired girl—keen, witty, and wise. We called her Hattie (Harriet Belle Walker). There entered with me a dignified damsel—blue-eyed, with sunny curls never in disarray, with a well-ordered mind. We called her Nannie (Anne Ames). A little later came a sweet little girl whose pleasant ways and soft Southern speech won our hearts at once. Beholding her, we loved her. We called her Nina (Cornelia Irby Morgan). And there was one, a wizard in Geometry. We called her Ella (Marlow). Still later came an intimate friend, destined to become my cousin. Ambitious to excel, studious, gay at heart, we shared our lunches and our confidences. We called her Addie (Addie Tune).

Time fails me to tell of others. Are not their names written in the annals of the school? All these were dear.

The class of '80 was small. Mary (Wheeler) and Alice (Nokes) went early to that better land. Myra (Goodwin) became the wife of a college president and won distinction for her stories and her verse. Sadie (Rabb) died by accident in the full flower of her womanhood. Anna (Kennedy) and I alone are left. It was at Mary's request that I wrote at the time of our graduation some verses descriptive of our class. I cannot give the lines about the four who are gone, but with Anna's permission I will read hers. I had been referring to Myra as a poet and Sadie as an artist.

"Then came Anna, not a poet or an artist rare was she,
But was noted in the school room for originality.
All the little children wondered when they heard her quant remarks,
And the big girls never flourished without Anna in their larks."

The class of '80 is unique in one respect: we had no commencement. We have therefore no class programmes to show. We were all ready with our essays and our lace-trimmed organdie dresses for the great event, but the beautiful conservatory proved our undoing. Mrs. Somers stepped out on it—probably to train a refractory vine—made a misstep, injuring herself so seriously that there could be no commencement. Instead, on a rainy morning the class of '80 in their everyday apparel received their diplomas in the back parlor of 204. Senator Morgan presented them in his usual happy, gracious manner, and afterward there was music by Nina and Julia May Somers, the class of '80 went out into the world—which at that particular minute was dark and dreary. Of Mrs. Somers, that rare soul, it is difficult to speak. I would like simply to read a sonnet written to her—at Miss Ames' request.

With upward look she saw the vision splendid,
High hearted, undismayed, with steadfast aim
She sought the good, the true, forgetting fame.
Through joyous years, with sorrow not unblended,
White souled herself, for purity she fended.
Far sped the magic of her honored name;
To learn of her a fair procession came
Rank upon rank, unbroken and unended.
As this great pile of brick and stone displays
In rhythmic harmony a master's skill,
A monument to her whose faith-filled gaze
Saw it yet nebulous—So young lives will,
Her impress showing, their white temples raise,
Fit dwellings to enshrine her image still.

CORA WALKER HAYES

ALUMNAE REUNION

The fifty-fifth Annual Reunion of the Mount Vernon Seminary Alumnae Association was held in the Great Hall of the school on Saturday, the twenty-fourth day of May, Miss Foerderer, the President, in the chair.

The meeting called to order, Miss Myers introduced the Class of 1930. The President's greeting follows:

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1930:

My absence in Europe at this time last year made it impossible for me to personally welcome the Class of 1929 into the Alumnae Association, and so it is with doubled pleasure that I greet you, the Class of 1930, as members.

You have now completed your various courses of study and stand on the threshold of a new experience. Behind you lies preparation. Before you lies opportunity. Opportunity to make use of that preparation. With the tangible proofs of work accomplished, with the concrete examples of instruction have also come the intangible, the abstracts you have unconsciously absorbed, and it is these latter which will serve you as much, even more, than the scholastic attainments as you cross the threshold and take your individual places in the work and play of the world.

M. V. S. has met its obligation to you. It has endeavored to fit you for whatever tasks are in waiting by giving you a standard which will prove a true measuring rod by which to rightly estimate the genuine from the false.

M. V. S. stands today, as always, a beacon of right influences. It has bestowed its best upon you by the emphasis it has placed on all that makes for high thinking and noble living.

And now, as you leave M. V. S., having shared its blessings according to your acceptance of the riches it has offered, we of the Alumnae Association ask that your gratitude may be increasingly expressed in terms of fullest loyalty to our school.

As President of the Alumnae Association I welcome you into membership, confident that you will reflect, by worthy lives, that credit on our Alma Mater which she so justly merits.

Eleanor Bovenizer, President of the Class of 1930, responded:

Madame President and Members of the Alumnae Association: It gives me the greatest pleasure to accept on behalf of the Class of 1930 our first and most distinguished responsibility. We fully realize the great honor bestowed upon us in becoming members of this association. We wish to assure you of our loyal devotion and our most sincere desire to cooperate throughout the coming years.

The President voiced the feeling of all present in saying, "Miss Cole's absence is the cause of very real regret tempered only by the fact that she is improving in health." She read a cable sent from Santa Margherita by Miss Cole, "Greeting Regret Love." A return message, a week-end cable, was read by Miss Walker, "We flash to you our appreciation of your greeting, your regret, your love. We miss you sorely; we would you were here to celebrate with us the twenty-fifth anniversary of your association with Mount Vernon Seminary. Our best wishes, our love, and our prayers follow you. The Alumnae Association." A telegram of best wishes and love was sent to Miss Kurtz.

Miss Ballou, Academic Head, but in Miss Cole's absence Acting Headmistress, was then introduced and spoke briefly but happily on "The Ideal Relationship of an Alumnae to its School." She said in part, "I doubt whether it ever will be necessary to rally the Association of Mount Vernon Seminary for future enrollment if one may judge by the number of granddaughters attending the school, nor could I question their affection or loyalty when I look at the Elizabeth Somers Memorial Chapel or pass through the Adelia Hensley Memorial Gates, but I do wish to stress the fact that the school is building for the future and has a far-reaching policy, as shown by the plans in Miss Cole's office, and that the Alumnae should be a tremendous force with their sentiment and affection linked with an intelligent and complete understanding of this policy to which they would give real support and unity of purpose.

The Roll was called by Miss Walker, who made the act a sacred rite. "I am thinking now," she said, "of Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley, the two who, seven years ago, entered upon the Great Adventure, and of Miss Cole, whose very heart is here today, and I seem to hear as did Moses from the Burning Bush, a voice saying, 'Put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place on which thou standest is holy ground'." Three of the honorary members, Miss Brouse, Miss Hill, and Miss Guard, answered to their names, and seventy-five of the alumnae, others arriving later for luncheon. Mrs. Cora Walker Hayes, Class of 1880, and the guest of honor, was introduced to the assembly. Additional guests of the Association were Miss Helen Hastings, Supervisor of the Forms, and all the other new members of the Faculty.

The Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved with minor correction.

The Treasurer's Report was then given:

THE CHAPEL REPORT

Miss Ames' report of the Elizabeth Somers Chapel Committee followed. It needs no comment.

For quite a long time the Chapel Committee has enjoyed "still waters and green pastures." The feverish activity of intensive work for more than seven years are over, but not the inner meaning for which our Chapel was wrought. Its real challenge lies in the heart and in the soul of the girls of the present and the future to whom the Chapel should minister. It is indeed a marvelous world for youth.

"To be alive, in such an age,
With every year a lightening page
Turned in the world's great wonder book.
. . . Give thanks with all thy flaming heart—
Crave but to have in it a part;
Give thanks and clasp thy heritage;
To be alive in such an age."

Yet never before was there such need of the eternal verities nor such necessity for the vision of the King in His beauty. I wonder if all of us think sufficiently of our younger Alumnae, following them not only with affection but also with our prayers, that they may accomplish their worthwhile destiny and may be unspotted from the world.

In material things, our Chapel still has its crying needs. From the beginning there has been the hope of inside shades that are so necessary in Colonial churches. In all the fine illustrations of churches of the olden times, none seem to lack these shutters that give grateful shade from the blazing sun. I have seen more than once, I am sorry to say, the sun full on the face of a preacher, who despite his extreme discomfort, must nevertheless endure because we have not provided the only relief in adequate protection. Quite recently someone said, "The Chapel is finished." Nothing could be more untrue. We need those shutters vitally, and if the younger classes that missed the privilege of giving other essentials in the construction of the building still wish to enroll, signal service will be rendered if they could supply this fundamental lack. We have in hand three hundred dollars that is the nucleus of this fund. As a practical suggestion, how would the school of 1931—Seniors, Juniors, Yellow Class, and White Class, like to "adopt" two shutters each of the eight side windows of the Chapel? Or perhaps some one person might consider, as a whole, this splendid gift or memorial.

Then too, in the original drawing, Mr. Bessell, our architect, indicated two hand wrought lamps, quite charming, over the outside little porch steps to the right and left near the Chancel. They have never been supplied and would be quite an addition.

In the years that have gone also several memorials have been given for specific purposes—some of these very sacred gifts have not been purchased because we are still searching the best and the most beautiful ones we can find. In the meantime these memorial funds are in the Savings Bank adding to the original amount.

The outstanding gift this year is the beautiful Lunette in the vestibule, the Lucca della Robia of the Madonna and Child with the two worshiping angels. This work was executed in Italy especially for that large niche in our Chapel. Miss Cole had all the careful measurements made, and Elsie Foerderer when abroad arranged for this lovely work of art. It came to this country in eight sections and was put together in Washington, the head worker an Italian looking for all the world like Mussolini. Eventually there will be a silver marker with the names of the donors, but not until Miss Cole returns will we be able to complete the list. Miss Cole is so essentially the moving spirit of our Chapel committee that we feel lost without her even in the few months of absence when she is storing up strength for the busy years that lie ahead, but a loving greeting goes to her and the hope of complete recovery to health.

Thus closes the fifth year of service of our beloved Chapel. We speak so volubly about material assets in our rushing exciting times, but like the Little Sanctuary it is—"in it are all those sacraments of finer aspiration that abide"—the unforgettable spirit of dear Mrs. Somers, the rare and fine personality of Mrs. Hensley, the loving memories of many a high soul "lost awhile" and innumerable earnest words spoken in the quiet hush of Sunday Afternoon. Thus, "A sower went forth to sow."

Truly M. V. S. will never lose the high vision that is her heritage, when crowning the achievements of the years, stands the Elizabeth Somers Chapel spiritual not temporal, the living heart of aspiration.

The further consideration of a question discussed at the last meeting was then entered upon, the President stating that Miss Cole desired a frank expression of opinion from the Alumnae concerning her suggestion "to bestow the diploma of Mount Vernon Seminary upon a girl who has gone from its preparatory department into a major college and completed two years course in that college. Also that such student be received into the Alumnae Association with all the privileges of the Association." The discussion which followed revealed a beautiful love and loyalty to the school, a consciousness of the great value of its Junior and Senior years and a unanimous feeling that the diploma of Mount Vernon Seminary in the opinion of its Alumnae is too precious a possession to share save with those who have definitely worked in the school for its acquisition. The motion to this effect was carried without a dissenting voice.

The meeting then discussed Miss Cole's proposal of an Alumnae Council open to all those who have attended Mount Vernon Seminary, graduate or non-graduate; this council to act in close contact with the school and assist in shaping its policies. It was so voted unanimously. Immediately following this announcement of the result Miss Walker moved that the Association register a vote of thanks to Miss Cole for planning such a Council—seconded and carried.

A report followed from Miss Murphy, Editor of the ANNUAL, in regard to printing; decision was voted to be left to the discretion of the Editorial Committee.

There being no further business, the meeting, one of great dignity and charm, was adjourned.

A most delectable luncheon was served in the school dining room under the very able direction of Mrs. Baylis, M. V. S. dietitian.

Mrs. Mary Bradford Stone, '88, was Toastmistress for the luncheon. We regret that space does not permit us to print in full her witty and clever introductions, but we are deeply indebted to Mrs. Stone for her very great share in the success of the day.

Mrs. Cora Walker Hayes, the guest of honor, spoke charmingly of the M. V. S. of fifty years ago. Her article is given in full elsewhere.

Although Emma Patten Hoyt was unable to attend the twenty-fifth reunion of her class, she sent a letter of greeting which was read at the luncheon by Florence Brace Darsie who had come from California to be present at the reunion. Mrs. Stone called on Marjorie Ray Potter who responded graciously. Martha Alexander, '29, gave some interesting statistics on the adventures of the Class of 1929 during its first year away from M. V. S.

Wilma Koenig, of the Class of 1930, read her Class Poem, a beautiful sonnet.

AMBER AND GOLD

There's amber flecked in furrowed, rustic rows
Of gleaming sheaves of wheat from glowing fields,
And daffodils that dewy meadow yields;
Even the autumnal whirlwind swiftly blows
A labyrinth of golden leafy foes
That clash and swirl till glowing firelight wields
Their amber faces into sparkling shields
Of ruddy flame, that flick'ring comes and goes—
A world suffused in golden amber light
Revealing God in every lustrous hue
A wondrous radiant world, so dazzling bright
That only pensive amber rays subdue
Its startling gleam, and mortals sight
Divine reality and life anew.

The Class of 1881 for the second time was awarded the Cup for having the largest percentage of its membership present.

Even a terrific downpour of rain did not prevent many of the girls past and present from paying their annual visit to the Elizabeth Somers. The granddaughters particularly enjoyed inspecting the scenes which for their mothers hold so many tender memories.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

This year the happiness of Commencement Week was dimmed by the absence of Miss Cole whose personality lends charm to every occasion. Nevertheless to Miss Ballou, to the Faculty, and to the Student Body we owe one of the most successful weeks in many years—the more remarkable in the face of such difficulties.

Friday, May the twenty-third, School Day with its scholastic and athletic awards, the exhibition of Projects, and the evening Recital ended the academic year proper.

On Saturday, Alumnæ Day, many old girls returned to their Alma Mater to meet their friends of other years and again swear fidelity.

The Baccalaureate service Sunday afternoon was held in the beautiful Elizabeth Somers Memorial Chapel. Dr. Albert J. McCartney, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, preached a sermon so appropriate, so fine in its simplicity that it touched all who heard it. The Cloister Supper and the Class Songs closed a day that will be long remembered.

Monday evening the Junior Class presented "Romeo and Juliet." Distinctive talent was displayed not only in the acting itself but also in the directing, the stage-setting, the lighting, and the costuming.

Class Day, Tuesday morning, found us re-living with the Seniors their Class life, seeing into their future, and witnessing their last Will and Testament. The bonfire and the planting of the Class Tree, a fine dogwood, closed the exercises.

Tuesday night the Treble Clef Club concert was given. Each year Mrs. Payne and the club seem to excel all previous performance, and this year was no exception.

Commencement Day, May the twenty-eighth, was characterized by the dignity and simplicity for which Mount Vernon Seminary is noted. Dr. Richard M. Burton, of Columbia University, addressed the Class of 1930 in a manner at once forceful and purposeful, giving the graduates many things to hold in memory throughout their lives.

May 3d. Mrs. Margaret Weller, mother of Mrs. Richard W. Hynson (Marguerite Weller, '08).

IN MEMORIAM

Mabel Cannon Le Seure, Died April, 1930

The Class of 1886 extends its sincerest sympathy to the two daughters and the sister of Mrs. Le Seure. Her husband's death preceded hers by several years. She took a most helpful part in the activities of the Class, in the selection of the Class pin and motto. She had an amiable and forceful nature which endeared her to her classmates. She will be greatly missed not only by her immediate family but by her many friends.

MARIE WILKINSON HODGKINS

A NOTABLE LIFE

Years are always potential with their challenge of usefulness but when someone attains the ripe age of ninety-four and all of those years are full of activity, helpfulness, and broad vision, what a glory and a heritage is such a life. This was eminently true concerning Mrs. Daniel Stewart, of Indianapolis, Indiana, who died on April 25, 1930. She was the mother of Mrs. John Carey, of the Class of 1877, and Mrs. William Scott, and the grandmother of five granddaughters, two of whom were Mrs. Ruth Carey Haines, of the Class of 1902, and Miss Martha Carey, who died March 5, 1925. Mrs. Stewart was the aunt of the famous writer, Booth Tarkington.

From the beginning of Mount Vernon Seminary the families of Stewart and Tarkington were closely associated with Mrs. Somers; Like Mrs. Somers, Mrs. Stewart, Martha Ann Tarkington, was the daughter of a Methodist clergyman; she was born February 17, 1836, while not two years later on November 5, 1837, in the same state and the daughter of another Methodist preacher, Mrs. Somers was born. When Mrs. Somers started her school in Washington, two of the earliest students and boarders of Mount Vernon Seminary were the daughters of Mrs. Stewart, while none of the older generation of our dear school can ever forget that delightful gentleman, Dr. Tarkington, Mrs. Stewart's brother who was such a constant visitor in the old days of the school.

Mrs. Stewart was not only deeply rooted into the growth of Indiana, as was Mrs. Somers, but, like her, her interests were both broad and far-reaching, touching every activity of her city, Indianapolis. Loyal to her church and a life long member, she was also one of the Founders of the Methodist Hospital. Interested in educational things, she was one of the first members of the Free Kindergarten Societies of that city, while she was equally keen about the development of the Fine Arts and was at the time of her death a member of the John Heron Institute. She was the first Indiana woman to honor pioneer women in a Memorial, her gift of a Tiffany window in the Meridian Street M. E. Church; this window was unfortunately later destroyed by fire "I feel that pioneer women endure the same, if not greater hardships, than the men," said Mrs. Stewart, "so I gave the window to the memory of both men and women."

As we think of those most remarkable women, Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Stewart, who served their generation so nobly, efficiently, and graciously, we can but reflect on the fine art of living that bore such flower and fruit. Surely, Mrs. Stewart left a rich heritage to her children. In the lovely poem, "Transfiguration," written by Louisa Alcott, are these closing verses.

"Oh, noble woman! never more a queen
Than in the laying down
Of sceptre and of crown,
To win a greater kingdom yet unseen.

Teaching us how to seek the highest goal;
To earn the true success;
To live, to love, to bless;
And make death proud to take a royal soul."

ANNE SEYMOUR AMES

PERSONALS

As usual, this year, many of the M. V. S. Faculty members are planning trips to foreign lands: Miss Guard will join Miss Cole in Switzerland; Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Rickett will visit in England; Miss Carroll and Miss Elliot are touring on the Continent and will attend the Passion Play at Oberammergau; Miss Blakeslee expects to go to Labrador; Mrs. McAllister plans to motor to Nova Scotia; Mlle. Moule is going to French Canada.

The summer months will find many members of the Staff travelling in this country also: Miss Leino in Maine and Minnesota; Miss Hopkins in Virginia and North Carolina; Miss Chickering in New England after attending the graduation of her nephew from Princeton; Miss Hill will motor to her home in Ohio; Miss Hillyar will spend her vacation at home in Virginia, and Miss Walker, a part at least, on Lookout Mountain, Tennessee.

Summer for most of M. V. S. means months of travel and recreation but for a few members of the faculty it is a season of concentrated study and work: Miss Hastings, Mrs. Lloyd, and Miss Elting will attend the Summer Institute of the Progressive Education Association at Vassar College; Mr. Lloyd will study at Columbia University; Miss Holden is to be Director of Admissions at Smith College; Miss Nourse will do some work on the historical study of Japanese social and economic life; Miss Beatrice Pearson plans to take psychiatric courses at the New York School of Social Service; Mr. Torovsky will prepare examinations for the Fellow of the American Guild of Organists; Miss Jean Pearson expects to go to Pinewood Camp in Michigan.

Miss Ida Munson Andrus is at present enjoying a period of leisure and rest following years of teaching in the grade schools and High schools of Indianapolis.

For this, her chosen profession, she was ably equipped, for, following her graduation from Mount Vernon Seminary she studied at De Pauw and at Michigan from which latter university she was graduated. She has earned for herself the reputation of being one of the most successful educators in Indiana. Through all these years she has treasured fond memories of her school days at Mount Vernon Seminary. On the occasion of the fiftieth reunion of her class in May, 1928, ill health prevented her from joining with Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Griggs in that delightful celebration.

"My husband and I are greatly favored in that our only child, Lura II, with her husband and her two children, Lura III and David, lives just across the street from us.

"I take an active part in a number of organizations. At Christ Episcopal Church which my parents attended and where my husband and I, our child and our grandchildren are members and regular attendants, I start the week by teaching my young people's Bible Class. Every Monday my daughter and I attend the Monday Club, one of the oldest "Women's Literary Clubs" in the United States, now in its forty-seventh year. I am a charter member of this club and my daughter is a club granddaughter, my mother having been a member. The first Tuesday of each month we attend the Amateur Musical Club now in its forty-second year. My daughter takes part in the programmes in both solo and chorus work, and I in piano work and the writing of papers. During my presidency this club was one of a small number to secure honorable mention in a National Congress of Amateur Clubs. The first Thursday of each month we attend the meetings of Illini Chapter D. A. R., in which we have done the various kinds of work for which this national organization is noted. We have many Lincoln Associations here and our chapter in which I am a charter member has erected three Lincoln memorials. We are regular attendants at the concerts of the Civic Music Association and have acted as directors of its board. I am a member of the Ottawa Woman's Club in the various departments of which I am an occasional contributor; I have recently accepted the local chairmanship of the National Cathedral Association (Washington); every Friday my daughter and I devote to our parish church work. In addition to these more earnest activities, truth compels me to add that we also take part in more frivolous affairs, for this old town is a very gay place which indulges in a deal of entertaining. From this busy round—in which my husband is far more active than I—we seek surcease each summer in travel in this country and in foreign lands. Gleanings from these delightful trips form the subject for travel talks of which we give a number each season; and last but by no means least, I love to keep house and to garden. So altogether for an old lady now approaching her seventy-second birthday, I lead a busy life due to my happy surroundings and the health with which Heaven has blessed me.

LURA NASH GRIGGS.

"Alas, of the six who composed the class of 1880 only Anna Kennedy and I are left. Anna has been a capable business woman keeping young and abreast of the times. And I seem not to have taken great thought of time save of its flight. As I am the mother of three—two sons and a daughter—all busy with the world's work, the grandmother of four stalwart boys, Satan does not find mischief for me to do because my hands are too full to be idle. Life is beautiful. Life is good. Where there is sun there must be shadow, which makes one all the more appreciate the shining of the sun.

"I am planning now to sail for Europe on the Adriatic, the fourteenth day of June. The stay in Washington and the trip abroad will give me much to do and to anticipate."

"CORA WALKER HAYES"

Ella Marlow Harrison makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. W. S. Pratt, at Capitol View, Maryland, a pretty suburb of Washington. Mrs. Pratt has three interesting children; the eldest is a student at Sweet Briar College, the two sons are still at school near home. Mrs. L. A. Towers, Ella's youngest daughter, lives in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and has two fine children, a girl of six and a boy of eight. They came east last summer for a visit of three months. Mr. Towers joined them and they had a wonderful trip home via automobile. Ella is a member of the Community Club in her neighborhood and is active in the literary section of the Club which meets once a month.

A happy event in Harriet Belle Walker's family was the marriage of her niece, Mrs. Belle Taylor Doyle, to Mr. Silas W. Cain, of Bel Air, Maryland. Belle Taylor was a student at M. V. S. several years ago—liked and admired by all. The wedding took place at the home of her father, Mr. Lauren Taylor, at Roland Park, Baltimore, last December. Another item of interest coming from this large family connection is of an epoch-making nature, Helen Yeatman Doughty's daughter, Frances Harriet, six years old, is at school and at that tender age is making fine progress, all reports showing an A grade. She is evidently a chip from the old block and is living up to the standard of her Aunt Harriet, whose name she bears. The school she attends, by the way, is one of the best and finest public schools in this country. On the top of Lookout Mountain near Chattanooga, Tennessee, it has every possible advantage of situation as well as splendid modern equipment.

Very good news comes from Addie Tune Walker. She writes of an improved state of health and of her very enjoyable life with her daughter, Mrs. George T. Howard of Chevy Chase. Evidently the center of a most loving family circle whose affairs make the great interest of her life, she writes most happily of her grandchildren. "We have two now, one, whose name is Mary Lou, is like her mother, she is merry all the day; the other, Virginia Adelaide, is tall, dark and dignified as Mary Lou is fair, laughing and mischievous."

Anne Seymour Ames is recovering from an illness of several months. She is much engaged with her Braille and finds many interesting books in the Braille division of the Congressional Library. She is also constantly occupied with her typewriter, which she manipulates through the "touch system." As usual, Cornelia I. Morgan and Anne Ames will spend the summer at Chautauqua, New York.

Cornelia Irby Morgan has been for twenty-five years a conspicuous member of the Seymour Club devoted to the study of Art and Literature and named for a brilliant woman long its president, and incidentally the mother of Helen Seymour Wiley, herself an M. V. S. girl who recently visited the school to enroll her daughter. A signal honor came to Nina this year when the Governor of Alabama himself wrote inviting her to be the guest of the state at the dedication of a bridge named for her father, John Tyler Morgan. This bridge spans the Coosa River and is situated in the county where Senator Morgan studied and practiced law, wooed and won his lovely wife—all before the age of twenty-one.

Mary Jennings has returned from a seven months trip to Europe.

1886

"Most of my time not needed by my family is spent in helping in the work of various organizations: church work, The Woman's City Club, The Colonial Dames, and the woman's activities of the George Washington University. I am now engaged in the Bicentennial of 1932, which is working on the restoration of the birthplace of George Washington.

"MARIE W. HODGKINS"

Addie Burr Clark wrote a thrilling letter of her Mediterranean Cruise in February 1929, "I had a life-long dream realized in seeing the lovely Alhambra; we had a wonderful time in Palestine where everything looked just as the pictures we saw when we were in Sunday School; we loved Cairo and Luxor and the tombs of the Kings." Addie's daughter, Jane, is teaching International Relations and Government in Barnard College this winter.

1889

Louise McWilliams West has been an invalid for sixteen years.

Mary Force is teaching principal of the largest and oldest grade school in Selma, Alabama. Her other main interests are her church work, Young People's League, and her membership in the Student Writers Club.

Florence Young Rague, to whom the Editor is grateful for these bits of news, intends to spend the greater part of the summer in the Black Forest of Germany.

1891

Marian Lilly Taylor is an always interested member of the Alumnæ and would doubtless have assembled news of the Class of 1891, had not a series of illnesses and operations in her family demanded her every thought and moment.

1892

Anne Sargent Gilbert has been enjoying a trip abroad this spring.

1893

Blanche Swope Mirick was in the hospital where she took a rest cure for several weeks.

1894

Lillie Bowen Fairfax and her husband had expected to spend the winter in Japan with their daughter, Beatrice

Fairfax Chandler, but owing to the illness of Mr. Fairfax their departure was postponed. However, they hope to sail May the twenty-third. Lillie has two grandchildren, a little girl seven years old and a boy aged two.

Edith Hancock Allen, whose husband is a Captain in the Navy, is now stationed at the Naval Base, Hampton Roads, Virginia. They expect to move to Washington next fall. Edith has one daughter who is at present a student at Skidmore College in Saratoga Springs, New York.

Oro Jo Hemphill writes that she and her father, who is eighty-two, lead such a quiet life that she has no "thrilling" news of herself. She spends the winter at her home in Washington and the summers in North Hatley, Canada.

Mae Melish Harris is having a wonderful time travelling. She and her sons, William Melish Harris and B. F. Harris III, took a trip around the world last year. This spring she plans to motor to Washington. Lucy Halliday Hume, who was her roommate at M. V. S., was her guest recently. Mrs. Hume is president of the Pasadena Garden Club.

Grace Wright Capen is President of the Twentieth Century Club in Buffalo. The club has a membership of five hundred, and at one of the meetings recently the programme was given by Elsa Durand Mower, '91. Mrs. Mower, while in Buffalo, was the guest of another M.V.S. girl, Virginia Partridge Shoelkoff.

An interesting letter has come from Hedwig Brand Gottfried. She spends her winters in Tryon, North Carolina, where her chief community interest has been the library and an amateur drama organization. Hedwig's eldest son, Manfred, has chosen writing as his profession and has had one novel published, "Prelude to Battle." He was for a number of years editorial writer for Time, the weekly magazine. He and his wife have been living in southern France the past winter. Hedwig's daughter, Helen, spent three years at Vassar and then decided to "strike out on her own line." In June she finishes her course at the Massachusetts Agricultural College where she has specialized in Animal Husbandry; she intends to have a dairy farm eventually. Rudolf, Hedwig's younger son, is a Junior at Yale and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa this year.

Mabel Walker Carter will have as her guest this spring her sister, Cora Walker Hayes, who celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of her graduation.

1895

Blanche Polkinhorn is interested in her music work; she has prepared numerous plays, programmes and choruses.

1899

Floretta Elmore Schriber had planned to attend the Alumnae Reunion but the sudden illness of her sister, Elsie, prevented her. Her daughter, Susan, has been at M. V. S. for three years.

After many years in California, Elizabeth Lucas Stevens and her daughter Carol are planning a trip east and intend to visit M. V. S.

Laura Pratt James has moved to Devon, Pennsylvania.

Elise Painter Thorburn has returned to the United States after having lived thirty years in Scotland. Her eldest son is here in business, and her younger boy will join his mother at their new home in Rye, New York, as soon as school is over.

Helen Palmer Andrus Pinkham returned for Commencement to see her daughter, Helen Andrus, receive the certificate on completion of the Secondary School course. She will take her daughter abroad next year to continue her education. Helen Pinkham said her feelings had run the gamut of emotions from satisfaction in her daughter's achievement to pleasure at renewing old friendships.

Martha Jarvis Hood is devoting her time to her children—her son is at college this year.

Lillian Lake Chance has become the first Class Grandmother, her only regret is that the boy cannot go to M. V. S.

May Libby leads a strenuous life with her large family of boys in school.

Theda Buck sailed for Italy in March.

Franceska Kaspar Lawson sings in concerts all over the east, principally in woman's clubs and colleges.

Lucy Tolerton Kirkley is looking forward to sending her daughter to M. V. S. in a few years.

1901

Mary Prince Noll's older son, Edward Prince, is a student at the University of Virginia, while her younger boy is planning to enter Hotchkiss in a short time.

Marion Dall, busy as she is with two invalids to care for, sometimes thinks she "might write what 1901 ought to have been and perhaps that might at least start an argument."

Belle Hinman Lammers spent last summer touring France. She and her daughter, Gertrude, are planning a trip to Italy, Germany, and the Scandinavian countries this summer.

Ruth Browne Blair is President of the Rector's Aid of All Saints Church in Chevy Chase, Maryland. Ruth is so modest and says the raising of over $4,000 for church needs is not due to her personally but to her group, but we know that presidents are elected or selected—not chosen at random and that to be the head of such a group is but an added tribute to her ability.

1903

Anne Hamilton McIntosh was the first to answer the Editor's appeal for news, and it is to be regretted that one as willing to help as Mrs. McIntosh should meet with slight cooperation.

Mary Ingram Purnell's son at Princeton has been elected President of the Freshman Class.

At M. V. S. we are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to reading Mateel Howe Farnham's new novel "Wild Beauty." This will be her third book, the other two were "Rebellion" and "Marsh Fire."

1904

Marjorie Ray Potter, President of the Class of 1904, sent out a very interesting questionnaire to all the members of the Class. Space does not permit us to print more than one complete questionnaire.

Name: Mrs. Alfred K. Potter (A. Marjorie Ray).

Address: 280 Irving Avenue, Providence, Rhode Island.

Business or profession: None, merely wife, mother, and housekeeper.

Husband's business or profession: Corporation official.

Children:

Name	Age	School or College	If Married, Name and Address
Helen Ray Potter.....	17	M. V. S.
E. Sheldon Potter.....	13	Providence Country Day School
William R. Potter.....	10	Gordon Open Air School, Providence

Avocation:

Pleasures: Reading, Contract.

Work: President Providence Y. W. C. A.; planning campaign for a new Y. M. C. A. building in 1931; Director of Providence Community Fund.

Reading:

Type enjoyed: Autobiographies, novels, even detective stories.

Books particularly enjoyed: "The Human Mind" by Meninger; "Hudson River Bracketeer"; "Fabulous New Orleans."

Trips:

Recently taken: Motoring in New Jersey, New England, fishing in Maine; Pinehurst for Sheldon's health last spring.

Contemplated: Commencement at M. V. S. this May; continued jitneying.

Opinions:

Prohibition: With the Amendment a law, I'm an observer but would like to see some change.

The League of Nations: I question whether the U. S. should enter this, but I think we should be in the World Court.

Miscellaneous:

There are some very interesting statistics to be culled from these questionnaires. Reading, contract bridge, and travelling are favorite pastimes, although the theater, concerts, and exhibitions rival them. Almost every member of the Class is interested in Church work and civic affairs; all but two enjoy biography, one likes verse and one the novel. The prohibition question which is claiming the attention of the whole nation at this time has given rise to various opinions among the 1904 girls. Of the five who stated their beliefs on this subject two were strongly opposed to prohibition, and three stood for modification.

Alice Stone Farmer has a student residence for girls in New York; this year she has had with her Marie Horst, Betty-Wynne Rugee, and Margaret Johnson of M. V. S.

Charlotte Plamondon Ripley is living in Chicago. Her two children are in school there, Jane in Northwestern University, Bradford in Chicago Latin School.

Mary Grosvenor Boyd as head of the Fashion Bureau of Strawbridge and Clothier in Philadelphia is working very hard; at present she is lecturing for the salespeople's Fashion Information. Her daughter, Mary, is at Dana Hall. Miranda Boyd Bartow is married and living at Haverford, Pennsylvania.

Lois Torinus Tolen has four children and a month old grandson. She is interested in church work and her literary and bridge clubs.

Marguerite Macomber is doing secretarial work in New York. She has recently been to France and is anticipating another trip abroad in the near future.

Bertha Bush Minahan has three children the oldest of whom is a Senior at Northwestern Military Academy at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin. She and her husband are planning a trip to Europe in August.

Grace Hills Woodland writes that her daughter, Virginia, is at Smith College and her son, George, is at Hotchkiss, preparing for Yale. "I attended our Class Reunion last May and I enjoyed visiting the school; I got a real thrill out of Washington. The visit to 1100 M and Senior House brought a few tears. The new school is a beautiful monument to Mrs. Somers and Mrs. Hensley."

Blanche Arnold Jones greatly enjoyed a trip to Scotland for the shooting last summer. She is active in the Garden Club, Community Chest, Theater Guild, and other civic affairs. Her oldest son, Arnold, is at Yale while her daughter, Mildred, is at day school in Springfield.

Estelle Rogers Hewlett accompanied her husband on a trip to Providence this spring. Mr. Hewlett was there touching up some very delightful murals which he had painted for a local bank.

The Class of 1904 is an outstanding class in itself. Of the sixteen members, ten answered Mrs. Potter's questionnaire; two of the remaining six did not receive her letter owing to change of address; so only four did not respond.

1905

Annabel Baggaley Hine takes a very active interest in the Garden Club of Short Hills, New Jersey.

Emma Patten Hoyt writes:

"Six years ago we moved from Chicago to New York which I have greatly enjoyed, and especially have I loved an old farm house in Connecticut which we acquired last year and where I have spent all my week-ends trying to learn to be a Farmerette. The children, Margaret Mary, now sixteen and at Miss Walker's School, and Jimmy, fifteen, at Saint Marks, enjoy the Farm as much as I do. Except for a brief trip to Europe last summer we spent a very happy time at the Farm where we raise Giant Schnauzers having at present about forty dogs. In November and December I was again in Paris when I sang at the Salle Pleyel with La Societe des Instruments Anciens returning in time for Christmas. In February when La Societe des Instruments Anciens arrived in this country for their annual tour, I sang some six concerts with them in the east and in Canada. In March of this year I became a partner in a decorating business. We have a shop on Madison Avenue called Molly McNamara and Emma Hoyt. This summer I intend to be with the children on the Farm except for a month in the west on a ranch.

Gertrude Mulford Churchill is at Aberdeen Proving Grounds where she and her husband have been living since their retirement from the foreign service. "We spent four glorious years in Hawaii. The trip out through the Panama Canal and the return voyage via the Orient, the Suez Canal, stopping at Cairo, and travelling through Europe were most interesting."

Agnes Balloch Dawson has been living in Mexico City where her husband has been the United States Consul General. Now she and her husband are on the eve of moving to Ecuador to which place Mr. Dawson has just been appointed Minister. A fifteen-year old son is attending Phillips Exeter Academy in preparation for Princeton.

Buff Ferris Purdum writes of her family, "Betty is attending the University of Wisconsin" while her two sons are in high school.

Edith Fry Pearson is interested in charity work. One day each week she sells ready-to-wear frocks in her home, the proceeds of which are divided between the Epiphany Home for Old Ladies and the Episcopal Home for Children.

Irene McKinney spends her winters in Bermuda, where she has renewed her acquaintance with Gladys Sherin Hetherington.

Mary Eleanor Beall tells of her attractive work of hand coloring greeting cards. She takes an active part in the church of which her cousin is the minister.

Evelyn Rouse Richardson is greatly enjoying her new country home outside of Greenwich, Connecticut. She is interested in the activities of Greenwich which include the Woman's Club, the Y. W. C. A., and the Garden Club.

1911

Gertrude Tweedy has a very responsible position in the Veterans' Bureau in Washington.

Evelyn Jackson Prophet has had an interesting and busy winter, for with her home and church work her days are full. She is President of the Woman's Auxiliary, teaches a Sunday School, is leader of a Mission Study Class, a member of the King's Daughters Society, and a member of a literary club.

Vera Clemes Hurd has enrolled her oldest daughter, Dorothy, in M. V. S. for the Fall 1931: "I consider that there is no school in the United States that has the culture, environment, and high standards that our dear M. V. S. has."

Dorothy Peet Burns has three delightful children, Sylvia, Dave, and Bill.

Clara Hoskins Willett was the sole representative of her class at the Alumnæ Reunion.

Mildred Astrich Porter wrote a charming letter telling of her classmates. Mildred motored to Cincinnati in March and stopped to see Sarah Gross Hoffstot in Greensburgh, Pennsylvania. Sarah's two children have their mother's gracious personality.

Alice Hayes is doing worthwhile charity work in Louisville.

Phyllis Purdy Ballard is still the capable, efficient person she was in school. She has three splendid sons and finds time for everything. Last year she took complete charge of the decorating and furnishing of a new club house.

Faith Haskell Miller was unable to attend the Alumnæ Reunion because both her small boys were recovering from severe cases of grippe.

Marie Ames Triplett writes:—"I have three boys, Bobby, Jr., almost twelve, Frederic, eight years old, the best disposition and the healthiest; and Bill who is nearly seven, the wildest 'baddest' child and too beautiful to be a boy." Marie visited Hester Steel Baird several years ago.

Helen Fay Dunn is living in Washington now. She has two boys, Beverly, Jr., aged twelve, and Billy, five. Major Dunn is in the office of Chief of Engineers, United States Army.

Ruth Barrett Walten was in Los Angeles a year ago and saw Betty Brant who is studying music—both piano and voice. Betty was abroad two years.

Margaret Wiley Hodgkins and her husband spent February in Florida. On her way home she stopped in Washington a few days to visit Hazel Ralston Struble. One afternoon they enjoyed a cup of tea in the attractive new Field House at M. V. S. Hazel is moving the first of June to Long Beach, California, where her husband is attached to the Battle Fleet of the Navy.

Ruth Ralston Otten lives in Portland, Oregon, where her husband is a landscape architect. They have two children, a curly-haired blond girl of ten, and a boy aged seven.

Marie Haller Sealy has two children and is living in Portland.

Charlotte Patten Guerrey and her husband were in Washington in January. Charlotte paid a visit to M. V. S. where everyone was delighted to see her. Mr. Guerrey, who for a number of years has been the head of the Baylor School for Boys, is now President of the University of Chattanooga.

Ethelwyn Hinckley Mayo, in Chicago, is studying painting under Frederic W. Grant. She motored through Florida this winter.

Ray Pefley Hutchinson is active in the Junior League and in church work. In April her "Legend of the Monongahela" was published in the National Junior League Magazine. Her two small daughters, Elaine and Sylvia, keep her well occupied.

Gertrude Hegardt Halsey has been attending Child Study classes at the University of Minnesota. She is interested in church work and belongs to the Junior League.

Marguerite Foster McCrary's sister, Ione Foster, is graduating from M. V. S. this year.

Martha Henley Holliday's son has been seriously ill. She also devotes a great deal of time to the Junior League.

Lois Mayer is a Reader in the Christian Science Church. She is studying singing and plans to go abroad in a year.

Mary Prince Zimmerman has been through "one of those awful winters that happens in every family sometime." While Mary's mother was desperately ill, Mary's six-year old daughter was suffering from a serious case of mastoid; however, both were fortunate in recovering. The family spent a few weeks in Florida recuperating.

Willamine Gardner Cook finds that the building of a new home, her two boys, and her charity work keep her time well occupied.

Marjory Stalnaker Alig is Treasurer of an M. V. S. Society in Indianapolis, Vice-Regent of the D. A. R. Chapter, and a member of the Government Science Club besides taking care of her seven small children—Clarence, Jr., aged ten, Frank Stalnaker, eight, Barbara Marjory, seven, Eldon Lloyd, six, Agnes Maude, five, Martha Stalnaker, four, and Vincent Boone, two.

Florence O'Donnell Maher tells of her interesting family of seven children and their busy times on their thirty acres with horses, a donkey, a billy and a nanny goat, a St. Bernard dog, rabbits, pheasants, chickens, alligators, turtles and gold fish. She and Mabel McIntosh Sprinkman live near each other, and one of Mabel's boys and Florence's daughter, Virginia, attend the same school.

Phyllis Patten Abshire has been very busy with three small sons and a nephew who all had whooping cough. She is greatly interested in a Junior League clubroom and library. Her young brother, Tarbell, was killed in an airplane crash in February while his wife and Phyllis were in Florida together and it has been such a tragedy for all of them that they have been unable to give much thought to other things.

Anne Howe Woodward, after living in St. Louis since her marriage, has moved back to Evanston. Her two little girls, Gloria and Nancy, five and six years old, are now in the same school Anne attended before her high school and M. V. S. days.

Jerry Mark Sharer is living in Chicago now. Her two daughters are Jerry, five and a half, and Allison, born last October.

Dotty Davidson Wilson is still in Los Angeles but she is hoping to build in Pasadena soon. Her children, Virginia, Kenneth, Jr., and David, have just had the chicken pox.

Betty Adams Cunningham is living in Yakima, Washington, and has two little girls.

Gertrude Stout Sage writes from Omaha that she wishes she could give us tales of a thrilling life full of accomplishments. Dr. Sage is an obstetrician which makes life uncertain at all moments. Gertrude's two year old daughter is of course adorable. They are having great fun furnishing a new home. Gertie says she will never admit how long she has been out of school. The other day some young things fresh from college asked what year she had graduated, and when she said the year of the war they sighed and regretted that they couldn't remember that far back.

Helen Anderson Daugherty is living in Altadena, California, her husband having resigned from the army a year and a half ago. They had moved about the country being stationed at various forts and also at West Point, but the doctors told Helen she shouldn't go on foreign service so her husband resigned and has gone into the oil business. Her children, Alice, nine, and William, six, are in school. Helen is in an art class and is also taking some music lessons.

Virginia Hamill who is a very successful decorative art consultant writes a thrilling letter of her really phenomenal achievement. She gives constructive criticism to manufacturers in everything connected with the home. She has a large force working for her and is planning to move into a new building where she will occupy half of one floor. She is on the Board of Directors of several Art organizations and has been asked to serve on the advisory committee of the Bell Telephone Company, as they even think the homely telephone can be improved in appearance. One of her most important appointments is that of Art Advisor for the Scottish and Irish Linen Guilds; this means that she goes to Scotland and Ireland, too, during her three months spent abroad every summer. She goes through their factories offering criticisms and suggestions. Virginia admits that she does have some time to play and has become engaged to Lincoln Johnson, a Yale graduate and mining engineer, who is now manager of the vast real estate holdings of a New York man.

Marian Matheny writes, "I am a very busy person these days as I am going to be married the twenty-first of June. I had no idea how much work is connected with a big wedding, however it is loads of fun and very exciting. My fiance is Obed Lewis Herndon. Emily Whiting, my cousin, is to be maid-of-honor. The poor girl has a busy time ahead of her, as she is to leave here immediately after the ceremony in order that she can be in Harriet Pilch's wedding party the twenty-eighth. Louisa Stericker Dixon's husband is to be one of the groomsmen, so it will be rather an M. V. S. wedding."

1921

From Dorothy Schmidt:

Mary Cunningham Hoard and her husband were planning a cruise to the West Indies the end of March.

Katherine Powers Woodruff has been visiting her family all winter in Palm Springs, California; her two sons were with her.

Bettie Thompson Prophet's husband and baby have been very ill with pneumonia but both have recovered.

Josephine Schneider McGeock spent most of last winter in California and visited many of her M. V. S. friends.

Victoria Phillips Garbisch was in Cuba this winter. "I had a wonderful experience at the horse races in Havana. I picked a dark horse every race and three times out of five my horse came in first."

Mary Lillian Kranz Neuses and Virginia Fryberger Sellwood spent part of the winter in Miami, Florida.

Jane Campbell Clapp has a little girl two years old.

Mildred Williamson wrote from Cambridge, Massachusetts, "These are busy days at Radcliffe—papers to be done before spring recess when the Museum class goes to New York and Philadelphia to see private art collections."

Isabelle Robinson Hulley, whose husband has been stationed in San Juan for two or three years, is now living in Philadelphia at an army post.

Josephine Carle Wheeler has a baby daughter, Marion.

As for myself, I spent last summer in Europe. In Stratford-on-Avon I met Miss Cole, and in Edinburgh I saw Mildred Williamson in the National Gallery. All winter I have again been running the Junior League Plays for Children—a most fascinating but exhausting "job." I have just returned from a five weeks cruise to the West Indies, Panama, and Cuba. We landed in New York in a completely bewildered and dreamy state—bewildered from all the sights we had seen, and dreamy from the soft tropical climate.

Christine Schonblom is a fine news-gatherer—her letter follows:

Maria Taylor Gregory is in Houston having just returned from her honeymoon in Mexico City. Ria has been very busy since leaving school doing camp work in Vermont during the summers and Little Theater and Junior League work in the winters.

Gladys La Rue Yeomans is interested in the Junior League's "Children's Theater" having been in charge of the programmes for two years.

Sarah Hawkes has returned to Sea Pines after a three month winter vacation during which time she and her father went to California and back through the Canal. Her mother met her in Havana and they went to Florida.

Vera Andersen Stenson is living in Chicago. She, her husband, and little boy, four years old, went to Chandler, Arizona, this winter.

Florence Williams is teaching school in Los Angeles. Her words are better than mine to describe it—"Trying to enlighten the third grade in the Orton School for Girls in Los Angeles." She sees Muriel Flint Gilbert and Grace Jeremey Cassady very often.

I had a long letter from Mary Henderson. She works half days in her father's Furniture and Interior Decoration business, writing, bookkeeping, checking samples and doing other odd jobs.

Elizabeth Pope Doree writes from New York on her way back to her home in London. As her husband had to be away for two months, Lib came over to spend the time with her family in Palm Beach. She crossed with Addison Pelletier and had seen Cornelia Allison in Florida.

Grace Jeremy Cassaday has a new home in Long Beach, California, and the care of her baby son, aged eight months, keeps her well occupied.

Esther Koenig von Schrader is still living in Ottumwa, Iowa, and her ten-months old boy seems to require all her time and attention.

Harriet Manter Woods, in St. Louis, seems to have kept track of the girls very well and sees a good many of them. Her letter is worth quoting. "I see Joe Carle Wheeler, Kay White Harvey, Lucille McPherson Jenkins every once in a while when some of us stray around. Esther Koenig von Schrader came through here on her honeymoon a few years ago; Marcia Rood Davidson stopped in St. Louis with her daughter last year. Corrine Lueking Froemke and Susie May Woods Lyon, my sister-in-law, live here and we have many talks over our bridge games. The future of M. V. S. seems to be assured as every girl I have mentioned except Esther has a daughter." Harriet has a daughter born October the twenty-fifth, 1928.

Elizabeth Mann is working here in Boston; she is in charge of the camp department for Porter Sargent. She, Miss Davis and Miss Stewart have an apartment together.

Martha Ormerod Moore from Niles, Ohio, reports "Married, yes, very happily. Heirs—none." Martha is planning to go to Duluth this summer and visit Phil Shaw and Jane Campbell.

Elizabeth Fleming Boardman sent me a darling snap of her oldest daughter, Betty Berry, aged three. The whole family is very thrilled with another little girl, Martha Fleming, born March the eighth, 1930.

Phyllis Shaw dropped in to see me the other day. She hadn't been home since November, having spent Christmas in Bermuda and the rest of the winter in South Carolina. Phil says she doesn't loaf all the time, she works in the library in Duluth and gives some time to the Lighthouse for the Blind.

As for myself, I'm still in Boston at the same job, secretary to Honorable James M. Morton, Jr., a District Judge in Massachusetts. In the Federal Courts we have new and fascinating cases all the time and I'm wild about the position. Boston has been a pet of mine for a long time, for it always has something new to offer. I went to Law School last year at night and started in this year but my eyes gave out and I had to stop. I am feeling fine again and planning to go back next fall.

The distinction of having the first "class baby" goes to Florence Bontjes Newell. A daughter, Nancy, was born to her on August the twenty-second. This joy was diminished by sorrow when two months later Florence lost her mother, Mrs. John H. Bontjes.

Emma Ritchie Shaw spent a morning at M. V. S. last November. She writes that the center of family interest now is their baby girl, Fanny Moffett, born in March.

Frances Sherman describes in glowing terms the charming English cottage which she and her fiancé have chosen for their future home. Frances is to be married in June to Mr. Edgar D. Turner, Jr., and they are to live in Berkley.

Betty Slaughter has spent the past year doing Junior League work and going to business college. The latter resulted in a fine secretarial position for her.

Charlotte Spencer's wedding in March to Mr. John Sheridan Zelle, Jr., was a quiet one owing to the death of Charlotte's father last January. Mr. and Mrs. Zelig are making their home with Charlotte's mother for the present.

Catherine Howell Scott writes that, aside from a short trip to Florida and Havana last winter, she has "just been living in the same abode, in the same way, with the same person."

During the past year, Harriet Pilch has been attending the Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School in New York. She is to be married the twenty-eighth of June to Mr. Edward Haskell Hewson, a graduate of Lehigh in 1924.

Emily Whiting is going East in June to be maid of honor at Harriet Pilch's wedding. She will also be in Marian Matheny's wedding party; Marian is her cousin.

Natalie Smith Henson is happy to be back in Kansas City with her husband, after having spent seven months in Albuquerque, New Mexico for her health.

Addison Pelletier has a splendid position with an advertising firm in New York City.

Polly Schoder's time has been very much taken up with her work for the Children's Hospital and for the Junior League. She has been Corresponding Secretary for the hospital ever since the year after her graduation from M. V. S. and is now the youngest member of the Board of Directors. Polly is a charter member of the Los Angeles Junior League. Last year she was put on the standing committee of the Board of Directors, the chairmanship of which automatically puts her in charge of the Convalescent Home which the League maintains.

Harriet Babcock Campbell also is engaged in Junior League work. She is Chairman of the Welfare Committee the Chief work of which is with the Crippled Children's Hospital.

Living on the West Coast seems to give the girls more of an opportunity to see their former schoolmates, as it appears that everyone travels westward some time during their lives. Among the girls whom Margaret Martin has entertained in her home are Virginia Davison, Elvira Young, Gladys Karel, Natalie Smith, Emma Ritchie, and Christine Schonblom. Margaret is active in Junior League work and secured seventeen thousand dollars worth of advertisements for the program of the Junior League Horse Show. She is clothing five girls who are working their way through college. All these activities have been interspersed with trips to Honolulu, New York, and M. V. S.

In May, 1929, Eleanor Haigh Gow started a Round Robin Letter for the Class of 1926. It has taken twelve months to complete this as each girl wrote what she has been doing since her graduation. The Round Robin idea was wonderful, the letters interesting, and it is doing a great deal toward renewing our class friendships and creating enthusiasm for our fifth reunion in '31. Here is a bit of news from each letter.

Elizabeth Bennett wrote interestingly of her work in the movies, but from a page of the Junior League Magazine "has enjoyed unusual popularity and has been the recipient of many social honors since making her debut two seasons ago. She was a duchess in the Court of Seasons, her debut year, and the next year she was chosen for Princess at the Court of the Mediterranean. Twice she went to Waco, Texas, to the Cotton Palace and once to Galveston's Mardi-Gras. The role of Royalty is no novelty to her." Elizabeth was married the twelfth of May to Mr. Robert Lewis Easton, Lieutenant, Air Corps, United States Army. They will live in the Canal Zone.

Florence Birch McElroy wrote, "For a year after graduation I didn't let a serious thought bother me, but in the fall of 1927 I took a secretarial course; then in the spring I spent six glorious weeks with Marion Gaffney in Los Angeles. The first of June, 1929, Jack and I were married and the whole world has looked rosy to me ever since."

Alice Campbell wrote of her improved health. In 1928 she held the position of City Editor for the National Junior League Magazine. She is also interested in their Tea House and Clinic.

Blanche Daggett Chase told us of her trips to Europe, roamings in Canada, her Junior League work, and her marriage the tenth of August.

Elizabeth Davison has been globe-trotting, teaching in a grade school, and working for the Junior League.

El and I have tried repeatedly to get in touch with Katherine DeArmond Bryan. If anyone has heard from Kay I wish she would be good enough to let me know.

Mary Louise Gaut McNair celebrated her second wedding anniversary in March. She is doing her own housework, "much to my sorrow and my house's undoing."

Pauline Gaut said that matrimony "is the most wonderful part of my life." She is living in Louisville.

Eleanor Haigh Gow with her husband sailed May the second for a three years' stay in Paris. M. L., El Hayden, Helen Hannah waved a fond farewell from New York. El promises to return in May, 1931.

Eleanor Hayden's letter proved most interesting. A Broadway Actress! She played ingénue leads in stock companies. Her next engagement was playing leads in Paterson, New Jersey, then in Norfolk, Virginia. After a rest in Florida, New York again, where she was cast with Raymond Hitchcock in "Your Uncle Dudley." Mr. Hitchcock was very ill soon after the play opened and it closed in Chicago. El made her Broadway debut in "Philadelphia." After that closed she again starred in "Your Uncle Dudley." "Just at present I hope to do a few picture shorts." El expects to play leads in Fitchburg, Massachusetts, this summer.

Dorothy Koenig has a position as assistant to one of the Interior Decorators in Marshall Field's in Chicago.

Esther Nash Meyers has travelled extensively since graduating from M. V. S.

Caroline Sweeney has been on the Sick List but manages to do a bit of travelling and carries on her occupational therapy work in the Children's Hospital.

Helen Raynor Hannah told us of her wedding, described her husband, "details furnished on request," and she said she was tremendously happy.

Florence Woodard entered the University of Michigan last fall to continue her work in Interior Decoration. After graduating from M. V. S. she studied Interior Decoration at the Chicago Art Institute for two years. Then she put her knowledge to practical use, decorating furniture in the studio of her father's factory.

Anne Young hopes to graduate from the University of Wisconsin this year. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority and she has seen several M. V. S. girls in Madison.

Renate Zimmers Randall is doing occupational therapy work in the Children's Hospital.

I have done nothing exciting since my trip to California by boat, motoring home, stopping en route to see many M. V. S. girls.

ELEANOR MARSH

The following members of the Class of 1928 are attending college: Mary Pope, Washington; Edna Sherman, California; Shirley Hobbins, Wisconsin; Marie Horst, Grand Central Art School; Anne Hearne, a business college; Marguerite Herrick, Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School; Eleanor Voorhees, Miss Garland's.

Other members of the Class are pursuing various activities: Elizabeth Roberts, Beth Sherwood, Jessie Clark, Rowena Thom are interested in Junior League work; Esther Goetz, Jane Quilhot have travelled in Europe; Katherine Archibald returned for Founder's Day; Eleanor Miller visited in Florida; Martha Fitton is engaged to marry Mr. Robert Kirby Whyte. Elizabeth Johnston, the "class baby," is now the "class bride" having married Mr. William Ralph Dupree March the eighteenth. Rowena Thom has embarked upon a literary career: the editing of the Roll Call and of the first Alumnae Annual of Marleborough School in Los Angeles were both difficult tasks accomplished in her usual successful manner; she is Assistant Editor of the local Junior League news sheet, and she has had an article published in the National Junior League Magazine.

A number of the Class of 1929 are continuing their education in various colleges, as follows: Eleanor Dwight, Rollins; Florence Farnsley, Louisville; Margaret Johnson, Grand Central Art School; Gertrude Lammers, Northwestern; Mary Reed Simpson, and Ruth Wheeler, Wisconsin; Jean Syminton, Scripps; Susan Jane Wegener, Chicago; Margaret Murphy, Denver.

Since Commencement last year the Class of 1929 have travelled extensively in foreign lands: Martha Alexander in Europe, Japan, and the Hawaiian Islands; Susanne Bradley, Jane Cochran, Margaret Murphy, Mary Elizabeth Haradon, Mary Vereen, and Gertrude Lammers in Europe; Katharine Howell in Hawaii.

Social activities have also played an important part in the lives of '29: Florence Farnsley, Jane Cochran, Katharine Howell, Margery Riach, Susanne Bradley made their debuts; Alice Foye was a duchess at the famous Ak-Sar-Ben Ball in Omaha.

Dorothy Bovenizer was married to Mr. Gerald Donovan in November; Louise Redfield is to be married to Mr. Jack McAlpin early in June.

The Editor wishes to express her thanks to those who have contributed so generously of their time and talent to this issue of the Alumnae Annual; to Miss Walker and Miss Myers whose assistance has been invaluable; to Miss Hill and Miss Willis who have furnished the latest addresses; and to Rowena Thom who has been unfailing in interest and moral support.

This year an appeal for "personals" was sent out to each class. It is most gratifying to the Editor that many of the "old girls" have responded with so much interest and enthusiasm. To Lura Nash Griggs, Cora Walker Hayes, Cornelia Irby Morgan, Mabel Walker Carter, Marjorie Ray Potter, Natalie Smith Henson, Williamina Gardner Cook, Dorothy Allen Fargo, Dorothy Schmidt, Christine Schonblom, Eleanor Marsh, Rowena Thom especially, and to all others who have contributed, the Editor extends her greatest appreciation. Next year we hope that those classes from whom we have not heard for some time will communicate with us.
